Coal strike could bring major crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — If a threatened coal strike becomes reality this winter, its impact would be an energy cut-off almost three times worse than last winter's Arab oil embargo, experts agreed Friday.

But instead of hitting the driver and home-owner directly, as the oil embargo did, a prolonged coal strike could quickly hampr steel production and then bite into electric power generation.

The nation already faces expected natural gas shortages that may slow industrial activity this winter.

Federal and private experts say the outlook for petroleum fuels is good, but they, too, may become tight if trouble in the gas and coal supplies shift the energy burden to oil.

George Hall, fuels manager in the Federal Energy Administration's petroleum allocation program, said in an interview the optimistic petroleum outlook assumes normal winter weather and a willingness by Arab oil producing nations to meet U.S. needs.

But coal now looms as a far larger question mark.

Of the 590 million tons of coal mined in the United States last year, some 75 per cent was produced under the United Mine Workers labor contract which expires this November, a UMW spokesman said. The National Coal Association, a trade group of mine operators, makes the same estimate.

If the UMW were to stage a completely effective strike in November, halting that much production, it would cut off some 1.2 million tons of coal daily.

That is an amount of energy equivalent to some 4.9 million barrels of oil per day, or about 13 per cent of the nation's total daily energy use at 1973 levels.

By comparison, the Arab oil embargo at its worst cut off about 1.7 million barrels of oil per day, or about 4.5 per cent of total energy.

The UMW spokesman said the steel industry reportedly has coal stockpiles enough to last about two weeks and a longer strike would cut into steel production.

The spokesman said a prolonged coal strike would start hurting electric power generation in the East after about a month, in the Midwest after 40 to 60 days, and in the West after some 80 to 120 days.

At a panel discussion last Monday, Lawrence Goldstein, of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, warned that the electric industry has little ability to switch from coal to oil in such an emergency.

Trash pickup schedule given at N. Madrid

NEW MADRID A schedule for citywide collection of solid waste has been announced by the contractor, W.W. Masterson, owner of Masterson's Refuse.

Beginning at 8 a.m. Tuesday, the once -a -week pickup will be in the area east of Mains Street. and will also include Main Street and St. Jude subdivision.

Pickups will be made on Wednesday in the area west of Main Street to, and including, all of Kingshighway from Waters Street north to Riley's Gin.

On Thursday, all of the area west of Kingshighway to the city's boundaries, including West Acres subdivision will be serviced.

All refuse to be picked up msut be in a closed metal or plastic container with a tight fitting cover, or in plastic bags and placed along the curbs of the streets.

Masterson said there will not be any pickups made from alleys until further notice.

Theft reported

BLOOMFIELD --The Stoddard County Sheriff's department is investigating a theft which occurred sometime Friday at the display tent located at the Bloomfield Homecoming ground and city park.

Taken in the burglary were three afagans and two capes belonging to Mrs. John French, who had placed the items on display.

Several other items owned by the Elder Manufacturing Co. were also taken. These included: one white CPO jacket, one green sports jacket, one vest and a bov's size 16 coat.

Nixon not ready for hospitalization

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon has a new and painful blood clot in his left leg and is suffering from "severe strain and physical fatigue," his doctor said Friday.

But Nixon is "mentally alert" and hospitalization has been ruled out at Nixon's request, the doctor, Air Force Maj. Gen. Walter Tkach, said in a statement that a Nixon aide relayed to newsmen by telephone.

The statement did not say how serious the clot is, and the aide refused to call the former White House doctor to the telephone.

Nixon has been suffering from phlebitis, an inflammation of a vein, for several months. The ailment created the first clot.

"There is a new veinous clot in the former president's upper left leg," Tkach said.

"I have found the former president to be suffering from severe strain and physical fatigue, but he is mentally alert and has been working at his office at home each day.

"The leg is swollen and painful. The clot from the earlier phlebitis, which is still present, causes the former president periodic pain.

"Serious consideration was given to hospitalization, but it has been ruled out at this time based on former President Nixon's wishes.

"The former president will continue to receive medication and will be under doctor's care, and an evaluation will be made on a weekly basis by Dr. Lundgren and myself."

Dr. John Lundgren is a Long Beach internist with a specialty in cardiology who has been the Nixon's family doctor for many years. Tkach said he had examined Nixon on Friday morning after arriving here from Washington and had consulted with Lundgren, who examined the former president Tuesday in Palm Springs.

Lundgren's receptionist said he was out of town — "not in San Clemente" — and would not return until Monday.

A Washington source said the purpose of Tkach's trip was to "determine on the scene whether he (Nixon) should be hospitalized."

President Ford said he was concerned about Nixon and had asked for regular reports from his own physician, Navy Rear Adm. William Lukash, who is keeping in touch with military personnel in San Clemente and the neighboring Camp Pendleton Marine Corps Base.

7 injured, 3 seriously, in 4 SeMo accidents

Three Van Buren residents received serious injuries and four persons received minor injuries in four Southeast Missouri traffic accidents Friday.

The patrol said Fred Prummill, 65, Opal Maye Prummill, 73, and Michael Percy, 2, of Van Buren were seriously injured at 11:15 a.m. on Highway 60, 12 miles west of Poplar Bluff.

According to the patrol, Prummill lost control of his eastbound pickup truck on slick pavement, ran off the road and overturned three times. He was thrown from the truck.

All three were taken to Poplar Bluff Hospital.

An accident occurred at 12:30 a.m. on a county road three miles east of Cape Girardeau when a westbound car driven by James P. Goldrick, 17, of Cape Girardeau was coming down a hill, skidded on the pavement and struck a tree.

Judy MaCann, 17, of Cape Girardeau a passenger in the car, received minor injuries and was taken to

Auditor suggests refunds

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri state Auditor John Ashcroft said Friday he has recommended that the federal government reimburse 10 local governmental units a total of $102,431 in disaster aid assistance.

The recommendation, submitted to the federal Office of Emergency Preparedness for final review and approval, was $18,000 lessb than requested by the units. Ashcroft's recommendation followed audits of the disaster relief claims resulting from last spring's floods and high winds.

Only in the case of the Doniphan Special Road District did Ashcroft recommend rederal reimbursement of more than was requested by the governmental unit. The Doniphan district had sought $1,671 but Ashcroftl recommended reimbursement of $1,686.

Recommendations for the other nine were:

Clay County, $52,184; Western Road District of Platte County, $16,624; Byrd Road District of Cape Girardeau County, $3,252; the city of Hunnewell, $5,427; the city of Belton, $7,610; Naylor Road District of Ripley County, $2,194; Ripley County, $8,456; Buffalo Township in Dunklin County, $2,108, and the city of Commerce, $2,890.

Ad violation called to Standard attention

It has been called to the attention of the management of the Daily Standard that this paper was in violation of revised Missouri Statute 129.300 when it published a full -page advertisement on Aug. 20, 1974, urging write -in votes for H.H. "Bud" Townsend and Charles Spitler in the New Madrid County general election scheduled for Nov. 5.

The law says that any advertisement for a candidate for political office must be signed by the person who places the ad and that that signature also must contain the address of the person or persons who placed it. If a committee is formed to place the ad, then it is sufficient for the name and address of the chairman and treasurer to be used. If there are no officers in the committee, then the laws says that if 10 or more persons join in paying for the ad, it will be in sufficient compliance for the names and addresses of only 10 such persons to appear. It has to contain the words "paid advertisement," too.

The names were omitted from the Aug. 20 ad. Persons placing the ad were Ron Jaynes of Parma, chairman, and Roger Jaynes of parma, treasurer.

Scott countians accident prone

Do residents of Scott County lead safer or more hazardous lives than people in other parts of the country?

Are they more liable or less liable to be involved in an accident of some sort -- automobiel or otherwise -- during the course of a year?

According to government statistics, local people seem to be more accident - prone than the average.

The accident figures for the local area and for communities in other sections of the United States were compiled by the Public Health Service as part of its annual vital statistics surveys.

All types of accidents were taken into account, whether they occurred in the home or at work, while driving, swimming, boating or hunting.

Based upon the last three annual reports, fatal accidents in Scott County have been averaging 23 per year, with 11 of them attributed to autombiles.

Included in the figures are all accidents in which local persons were involved, wherever they happened. Exclused were those affecting non- residents.

Related to population, the toll in the area was at the rate of 68 fatalities per 100,000 people during the three - year period.

It was a higher rate than was found in most other communities in the United States, where the average was 58 per 100,000. The rate in the state of Missouri was 64.

Throughout the country, according to the National Safety Council, about 1,000 fewer persons died in traffic accidents in 1973 than in 1972.

It attributes the unusual drop to the fact that people did less driving and traveled at reduced speeds toward the end of the year because of the energy crisis.

Accidents have been responsible for a huge economic loss in recent years, it finds. The average over the last three years is placed at $29 billion a year. This takes into account loss of wages, medical expenses, insurance payments, reduced production and property damage.

Scott County's proportionate share of this cost, applying the average loss per accident locally, is approximately $5,796,000 a year.

Firemen to get pay hikes

CHARLESTON — Pay increases for volunteer firemen were approved Friday, according to City Manager Willis Downs, who said the favorable solution to the firemen's request for pay raises was reached after he reviewed the city budget and met with Fire Chief Joe Johnson.

Pay for daytime calls was increased from $2 to $4 and night time calls from $3 to $5 for the first hour of work. Extra time at fires ill bring firemen $2.50 an hour, a dollar increase per hour.

A four man delegation of volunteer firemen attended Tuesday night's city council meeting and threatened to resign if their requests for raises were not approved.

They cited the rising cost of furnishing their own equipment, plus having to pay for any damages to their automobiles which might occur while answering fire calls as reasons for requesting the raise.

Downs said Fire Chief Johnson had requested the pay increases in July and they had been under consideration, but the budget for the year had not included the necessary funds.

Arrest warrant issued

CHARLESTON — A warrant was issued Friday by Prosecuting Attorney Clifton Banta for the arrest of Lavern Frazier of Charleston, charging him with selling alcoholic beverages without a license.

Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons, said Frazier sold three cans of beer to Missouri liquor agents Jim Moore, Monte Johnson and Richard Irwin at the Town and Country club on Highway 62, West of Charleston Wednesday night.

The club is private and owned by Frazier and Frank Betts of Charleston.

Simmons and Deputy Sheriff Robert Smith and Norris Grissom, confiscated about $300 worth of beer, whisky and wine Wednesday night from the club, and told Frazier charges would be filed after the prosecutor received the report from the liquor agents.

He will be arraigned Thursday in Magistrate Court.

Hunting violation notices issued

Federal Fish and Wildlife agent Ed Nichols of Sikeston told the Daily Standard today that his office is in the process of issuing violation notices against 15 persons cited for federal hunting violations during the dove season that opened Sept. 1.

Among the 15 are four who were cited in New Madrid County on the opening day of the season. Missouri Supreme Court Judge John E. (Jack) Bardgett of Jefferson City; New Madrid County Prosecuting Attorney Hal E.Hunter Jr., Bardgett's 13-year old son, Bruce, and Noranda Aluminum executive Bob Phipps Pulliam of New Madrid.

The foursome were cited by special agent Dan Searcy of Illinois for a variety of offenses.

Judge Bardgett was cited for "taking a protected bird," Hunter and Pulliam for "possession of untagged birds" and young Bardgett was cited for over possession of dove.

Twenty- two of 39 birds that were in Hunter's truck were confiscated.

Hunter told the St. Louis Globe- Democrat, which unveiled the charges in a story by political editor Jack Flach, that none in his hunting party shot more than their limit. He said he and Pulliam were told they would be cited for having untagged birds, which he termed "ridiculous."

Searcy claimed that federal law requires all birds to be tagged by the owner and none in Hunter's truck were. Hunter said he thought a bird had to be tagged only when it was in transport.

Nichols said that each person receiving a "violation notice" has the option of requesting a trial or hearing or forfeiture of a collateral bond which is set by law. He said if hearings are requested they most likely would be conducted in U.S. Magistrate Court at Van Buren.

"In an aggravated type of case, which none of these are, we file complaints with the U.S. District Attorney's Office," Nichols said.

Nichols confirmed that the three adults were among those who are to receive violation notices. "Actually, two juveniles were involved, but we turn those charges over to the state agent in the county and he normally takes it up with the juvenile officer," Nichols noted.

Leestamper new SMSU president

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Robert E. Leestamper, 45, of Worcester, Mass., has been chosen as the next president of Southeastern Missouri State University.

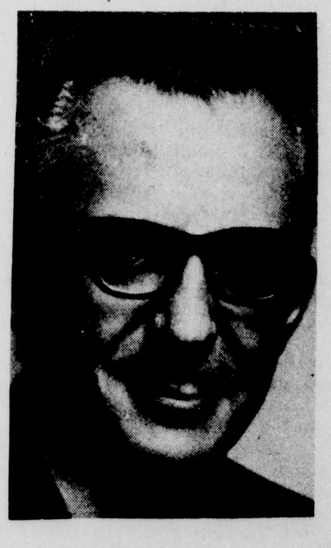

The school's board of regents announced the selection Friday.

Leestamper, president of Worcester State College, will take over the position July 1, 1975 when Dr. Mark S. Scully retires from the post.

The regents' announcement said Leestamper was chosen from 152 applicants after an eight month-long search.

He has been president of Worcester State for five years and holds degrees from the University of Minnesota, Columbia and Harvard.

Scully has been president of Southeastern Missouri State for 20 years.

Some 15,000 babies will be born with cerebral palsy this year in the United States. Some of those children of course will be here in Sikeston, and will need the kinds of services provided by United Cerebral Palsy of Scott- Mississippi- New Madrid Counties.

Cerebral palsy is a complicated set of medical conditions which can severely limit an individual's ability to grow up normally. But some of its effects can be minimized with proper attention.

This is why United Cerebral Palsy of Scott-Mississippi- New Madrid Counties is again turning to the community for financial help in providing the kinds of services which will make a difference: vocational and occupational therapies, medical care, psychological counseling, recreational programs and a host of other programs all aimed at helping the individual develop to his fullest capacity.

The direction and intent of these programs is highly commendable: to enable those with cerebral palsy who can do so to live in the community, to help them develop their individual potentials - both physical and emotional - and to relieve the disproportionate hardship on the family of a cerebral palsied individual.

Even with the pioneering work of the United Cerebral Palsy Associations, Inc. and the 300 affiliates in the United States, cerebral palsy is expected to affect one child in 200 born this year. Statistically, 20 people out of every 5,000 manifest one or more symptoms of cerebral palsy.

These are the facts in 1974. They can change as better prenatal care becomes available, as dedicated researchers find now answers, as thousands of volunteers and skilled professionals work with cerebral palsied youngsters on a day-to-day basis, and as those of us in the community support all of these efforts through United Cerebral Palsy of Scott-Mississippi -New Madrid Counties.

"God gives every bird his food, but He doesn't throw it into the nest." This thought, taken from another newspaper's editorial, applies to all of us. Surrounded and pampered by many modern conveniences, the average American family enjoys a standard of living far beyond the dreams of many people in the world. Even our poorest, if they have the will, will find the American ladder of success is blind to social status, race, creed or sex — all kinds of people have managed to scale it, and many more will before tha last chapter of U. S. history is written. The freedom for each individual to fulfill his potential is there. All it takes is determination and a willingness to work and learn from others who will teach you.

EVADING TAXPAYERS' WRATH

Concealing taxes at the local governmental level by turning local businesses into tax collection agencies is a favorite political tactic to avoid the wrath of taxpayers. Local electric companies and providers of other utility services have been targets of this tax collecting device.

One of the latest attempts to evade a direct confrontation with taxpayers is the proposal of a metropolitan Oregon county to impose a three percent tax on the gross revenue of electric, gas steam, telephone and telegraph utilities operating in the unincorporated areas of the county. One electric company spokesman said the amount his firm would have to pay under the proposal would equal the entire corporate income tax the company pays to the State of Oregon. Another spokesman called the proposal a selective sales tax. It would, of course, be passed on to utility customers in higher rates. Others noted that the proposed tax would discourage the growth of industry in the country. A representative of a steel company said that in the case of his firm it was not a question of passing on the increased cost of utilities to the consumer in the steel business, it was rather a question of "...passing on the business to competitors in Japan or Germany."

As publicly-regulated enterprises, utilities--such as electric power companies--have no cushion in their rate structure for the absorption of the punitive tax schemes of local politicians. The bottom of the tax barrel has been reached. Every conceivable hidden tax is already levied. Elected representatives of the people at the local government level as well as at higher levels of government will find it increasingly difficult to evade facing voters and taxpayers with the price tag in higher taxes for soaring governmental costs.

HUMAN DESTINY

The eminent scientist Le Comte Du Nuoy, author of Human Destiny, had the following to say about the influence people exert which makes them remembered:

"The destiny of man is not limited to his existence on earth. He exists less by the actions performed during his life than by the wake he leaves behind him like a shooting star. He may be unaware of it himself. He may think that his death is the end of his reality in this world. It may be the start of a greater, more significant reality.

"We cannot but be concerned by the disproportion between the duration of a man's life and the duration of his influence on future generation. Every one of us leaves a trail, either modest or brilliant, and this conviction would make itself felt in all the facts of our lives."

FLYING WITHOUT WINGS

The spider has no wings. Yet he can fly, sometimes miles. Nobody knows for certain which creatures were first to take to the air. But we do know that the spider was taking long journeys through the sky long before man ever dreamed that flying was possible.

The spider is the most widely-distributed insect, and one of the oldest. So far as we know, he has been making airships on which to travel ever since he first appeared. He is found in all parts of the world where the climate is not too severe, and it is believed this is because of his flying ability.

HIs ships are made of small silk threads which he spins and allows to float out into the air. He makes most of his flights in the fall of the year.

When getting ready for the "take off," he perches himself high upon a tree, a stalk, or old building holding tightly with his long legs. Then he begins to spin out long silk strands which harden as they strike the air, rise, and float with the wind. These are lengthened and multiplied until they will hold the weight of the spider. Then he launches out into space.

On a bright, autumn day, hundreds of these silken threads may be seen projecting from the spider's hideout, extending into air, ready to begin a flight. All that's needed then is a gentle breeze, and the spider is gone.

Spiders have been known to cross lakes seas, and even oceans on these frail ships of gossamer web.

However, the spider aviator cannot guide his course, and must travel with the wind, but he can land any time. While flying, he lies on this back to better control the ropes on his "ship." If he grows tired or hungry, and wants to land, he does just what a human aviator would do under the same circumstances. He begins to pull in his ropes. As they become shorter, he drops nearer to earth. When almost to earth he extends his ropes again to break his falling speed, landing safely upon his feet!

If he cannot find food after looking around, or does not like the place, he again takes a position on a high stalk or bush, begins throwing out new threads until they are long and strong enough to bear his weight, and with the first wind he "takes off" again.

Spiders have crossed mountains, deserts, and coninents into unknown lands on these frail "airplanes." They sometimes land on vessels hundreds of miles from shore.

While most of us do not have a lot of love for spiders, we do know that as spinners, artists, builders, and aviators, they still perform feats impossible to man.

While the Langleys and Wrights were wondering if man could ever fly, Mr. and Mrs. Spider were already making long solo flights in gossamer ships of their own invention, and are still doing it with far fewer accidents than men have.

PURE FOLLY

Major segments of the transportation industry have moved to prevent nationalization of the nation's transport systems by urging passage of federal legislation designed to strengthen surface carrier transportation as a private enterprise. The alternative is to let it be driven into government ownership by archaic laws, regulations and taxation that have come near to crippling regulated segments of the industry such as the railroads.

It was largely to remove the threat of nationalization that in 1971 the regulated water and motor carriers joined with the rails in urging passage of the Surface Transportation Act of 1971. For example, the president of the American Trucking Associations observed: ". . . we believe the provisions of the Surface Transportation Act of 1971 represent the greatest bulwark against the most serious threat we have to a sound transportation system. I am speaking of the threat of nationalization - the fate that has overtaken transportation systems in virtually all parts of the world."

It is easy to talk about government taking over a basic U.S. industry, but few apparently realize the implications of nationalization of the nation's railroads. A step of this kind would bring an additional backbreaking burden to taxpayers. It would mean burgeoning bureaucracy. It would solve none of today's transportation problems. As taxpaying, private enterprises, the railroads serve 45,000 communities on 206,000 miles of line. They have a national fleet of nearly 1.8 million freight cars and 29,000 locomotives generating more than 50 million horsepower to keep U.S. trains on the move. The rails employ almost 600,000 persons with annual wages and fringe benefits in excess of $6.5 billion. Rail purchases total more than $4 billion annually. Finally, in addition to payroll-related taxes, the rails pay to the Internal Revenue Service about $500 million per year.

OHIO DRIVER LICENSES TO BE COMPUTERIZED

Ohio's Bureau of Motor Vehicles is installing computer terminals in 210 driver license issuance offices located throughout the state. When the terminals are fully operational later this year, thyBureau will be able to issue first and duplicate drivers' licenses over-the-counter.

In addition to the convenience of over-the-counter issuance of licenses, the new terminal system is expected to increase greatly the accuracy of reports maintained by the Bureau for law enforcement purposes.

The Toro Company conducted a survey of leading golf course superintendents who use thyhigher horsepower engines on large turf maintenance equipment in order to determine what effect the energy crisis would have on purchase and use of this equipment.

The common thread that ran through the superintendents' reports was that labor costs far outweigh fuel costs. Any increase in fuel costs only makes it that much more important, they said, to reduce labor costs through the use of sophisticated, labor-saving equipment.

We would call this group the Committee to Elect the. . . ."

"NEXT!"

"All right, Gerry, being President is fine, but you have to think about your future after you're out of office. Your best bet, as I see it, is to invest in real estate. Now what I will do is talk to a few rich friends of mine and we'll buy you some land and then we'll get the government to fix it up and . . . ."

"Mr. President, there is no reason why you shouldn't take advantage of the tax laws just like everybody else. Now if I were on the payroll, I would see that you got every last possible deduction you were entitled to. First, we'd work out something for your papers from the time you were House minority leader. I think, staying within the law, you wouldn't have to pay more than $800 a year. Of course, I'd need your power of attorney and. . . ."

"NEXT!"

"You ask me what I can do for you, Mr. President? I'll tell you what I can do for you. There are a lot of people in this country out to get you. What I would do, if you gave me the job, would be to set up some sort of clearinghouse where we could keep a list of your enemies. Everyone on the White House staff could contribute names to the list, and then I would turn the names over to the Invernal Revenue Service and ask them to sudit them and. . . ."

"NEXT!"

"Your biggest worry, Mr. President, is leaks in the White House. What you need is your own special group which would prevent our secrets from getting out. Now the important thing is that since this group could be involved in some illegal activity, such as breaking and entering, wiretapping and forging papers, you would have to keep it from everyone, including the FBI. . . . ."

"NEXT!"

"Howard Hughes asked me to give you this letter of recommendation. . . . ."

"NEXT!"

"Sir, if I might be so bold, the most important person a President needs is a Jesuit priest. There are times when you will have to defend yourself over an action that could be considered by some as morally wrong. What better person to have in your corner than a humble man of the cloth who could. . . ."

"NEXT!"

"Mr. President, I believe the first thing we have to do to bring the country together is grant a full pardon to Nixon. This would heal the wounds and put the bad dream of Watergate behind us."

"Hmmnnn. When can you start?"

Inside Labor

by Victor Riesel

'Disgusted' by Jackson: Labor Chiefs See No Acceptable '76 Presidential Candidates in Either Party.

NEW YORK -- It was much like a long-ago, class- reunion, rip- roaring party in the cavernous halls of the Hotel Commodore here, the landmark hostelry to which traditional labor chiefs can wander in their sleep, they've been meeting there for so many decades.

It was Primary Day night. And the old New Deal team had won a smashing victory for their Democratic party gubernatorial candidate -- Congressman Hugh Carey. Thus, though the nation knows it not, the labor regulars had made history and were whooping it up. The word team is used very advisedly here -- labor's stalwarts such as the laborite latter-day Jim Farley, the Seafarers' Paul Hall, had woven together a coalition of union veterans and such political hall of fame names as Mrs. Herbert Lehman, Averell Harriman, ex-Mayor Wagner and even tiny Mayor Abe Beame.

The Labor Committee for Hugh Carey, headed by another veteran, Sam Kovenetsky, vice president of the Retail and Wholesale Department Store Employees Union, had been the ramrod force in smashing the old political machines allied with the New Politics crowd, which had officially given someone called Howard Samuels, the ex-betting parlor director, the official nomination.

Thus the victory of Congressman Hugh Carey really was a labor victory, an AFL-CIO victory, a win for the Committee on Political Education which, under its raspy director, Al Barkan, had thrown whatever it could to smash the New Politics bid for the governorship of New York.

If this November Hugh Carey defeats Nelson Rockefeller's surrogate, incumbent Gov. Malcolm Wilson (and there now is a strong chance Carey can) -- itwould put the old- labor-New Deal-Fair Deal-Great Society alliance in control of the state capitol and the delegation to the 1976 Democratic National Convention.

I do believe there would have been no Carey primary victory had it not been for the powerful and strategic support thrown him by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the Transport Workers, the International Longshoremen's Assn., the Machinists and a string of small "internationals" such as the Leather Goods Workers. The national significance of this is being overlooked.

Why? Because, despite the New Politics success in capturing delegates to the Democrats' national mini-convention in Kansas City this December, the traditionalists inside labor have unleashed formidable precinct vote- gathering machines everywhere.

In any tight presidential race, the Democrats just can't win without powerful labor support. And at the moment the Democratic National Committe which met in Washington the other day just doesn't have a candidate that can unite the labor movement behind him (or her, of course).

First, there's a strong Republican labor coalition to consider. On Primary Day eve, it too celebrated. Some 700 union chiefs, mostly in the construction trades, but with influential white-collar leaders among them too, whooped it up in a special room at the Yonkers Raceway. They drank. They ate. They shook hands with their candidate Gov. Wilson. They bet on the horses. They went home broke but full of solidarity.

Secondly, the national AFL-CIO headquarters has disowned the Democratic National Committee. Labor president George Meany says he has nothing to do with it, doesn't even know its chairman Robert Strauss, and doesn't plan to go to the mini-convention.

Third, labor wants a winner. It doesn't believe Ted Kennedy can outrun Chappaquiddick. And Meany -- which means most of the AFL-CIO executive council -- is completely "disgusted" with Sen. Scoop Jackson. And not only because the Washington Senator appeared to be brainwashed in Peking recently, according to Meany's intimates, but because of Jackson's stand on trade with Soviet Russia.

Meany and many of his most influential colleagues just don't trust Scoop on the negotiations with the Soviets. The labor chiefs don't really want Soviet trade -- and certainly not at the low 6 per cent interst for long-term credits. So Meany conferred privately with a spokesman for the Jewish Labor movement last week and with Sen. Jack Javits and Ribicoff this week.

Meany and a few of his vice presidents made it clear that while they are among Israel's staunchest friends, they don't want trade to hinge alone on the Soviets' pledge to permit Jewish and other dissidents to emigrate, as does Jackson.

What guarantee is there that once the Russians get most-favored- nation treatment (lower tariffs) Moscow's pulitburo won't break its word, harass the dissidents and defy the U.S.? Meany and his vice presidents want guarantees of permanent monitoring of the Russians and control of their exports to the U.S. and a better break on credits, etc.

The labor people believe Jackson has crossed them on this and is willing to settle for a political victory.

Thus, since the AFL-CIO executive council won't take Kennedy or Jackson or a New Politics McGovernite typified by Howard Samuels in the New York guvernatorial primary race, who else is there? Labor is hanging loose. It could swing in any direction.

But for the moment the tract is empty. Dark horse, anybody?

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

by Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON - With President Ford calling for government austerity, we have decided to help him by keeping a watch on waste. We will publish reports from time to time on government extravagance.

Postmaster General Ted Klassen, for example, ordered local postmasters to send postal vehicles to private garages for servicing. His idea, apparently, was to save the fuel it requires to drive the vehicles to government repair centers.

But the private garages unhappily have been charging up to 50 per cent more for parts and repairs. When the extra charges are multiplied by 103,000 postal vehicles, the result adds millions to the cost of delivering the mails.

To make matters worse, the 5,000 employes of the government garages are now sitting around with little to do.

We have obtained postal documents which show some of the price differences the taxpayers have underwritten. In Fort Lee, N.J., for instance, a private contractor charges $3.50 for a gas line filter that is available for 38 cents in government maintenance centers.

A battery in Teaneck, N.J., set the taxpayers back $44.90. The same battery costs only $17.86 in government garages. The taxpayers also got stuck with a $58 bill for two new universal joints, which were available at government garages for $4.12.

We made spot checks in Detroit, Los Angeles and other cities, where we found similar examples. All across the nation, apparently, the taxpayers are paying excessive repair charges.

We also have found evidence of waste in the "star routes" which link post offices in different cities with airport terminals and other transportation outlets. Private contractors move the mail over about 14,000 star routes at an annual cost over $262 million.

Government auditors concluded after an investigation that 16 of 85 star routes in Illinois could be eliminated, saving about $185,000 not to mention 88,000 gallons of fuel.

The Illinois example, according to our information, is typical of the waste in other states. Since the 85 routes which the auditors investigated represent less than one per cent of all star routes, the waste could be staggering.

Mail delivery, meanwhile, is deteriorating.

Footnote: Postal spokesmen say they are taking corrective action to straighten out the star routes and the maintenance mess.

ILLEGAL TRIP? A congressional delegation, headed by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., has just returned from mainland China where they made headline news.

Now constitutional authorities tell us that the study mission may have been illegal, because it was financed largely by the Red Chinese.

The Constitution states unequivocally that no federal employe shall accept any "emolument . . . of any kind from any King, Prince or Foreign State."

The House Ethics Committee was recently asked to interpret this clause. Concluded the committee: "Acceptance of travel or living expenses in specie or in kind by a member or employe of the House of Representatives from any foreign government, official or representative thereof is . . . prohibited."

Apparently, the Senate leadership was unimpressed by the House action which, incidentally, was endorsed by the General Accounting Office and the State Department.

In a memo quietly circulated, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Hugh Scott claimed that "participation (in foreign-paid trips) is in interest of the Senate and the federal government and the nation."

The Senate leaders noted that their own Ethics Committee didn't prohibit such trips. Since the constitutional ban provides no penalty clauses, senators apparently feel free to accept the hospitality of foreign governments.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: With the departure of former President Nixon and his top aides, apparently no one is left at the White House who recognizes all the voices on the Nixon tapes. This makes it difficult for the White House to transcribe the conversations demanded by the courts. Judge John Sirica, who took pains to make a study of the voices, is able to recognize them. . . There are more than 900 Nixon tapes, filed only by dates. It is a staggering task, therefore, to pick out the specific conversations requested by the courts unless the dates are given. . . So many men have claimed that they once played football with President Ford that a former Ford aide told us he has now met "about 300 people who played football with him at Michigan."

A covered -dish dinner at noon, following the morning worship service, will precede the dedication service, which is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. with singing by the Beardsley Family of Canalou.

The dedication speaker will be the Rev. Gene Lancaster, pastor of Tallapoosa Baptist Church.

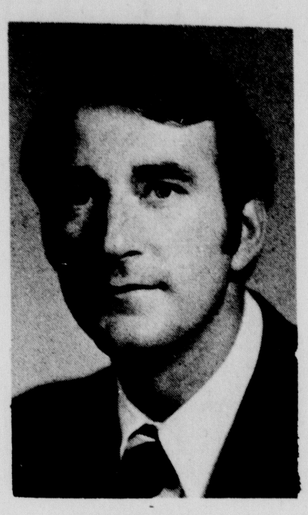

Rotary governor to speak in Sikeston

District Governor W. F. "Rock" Wilferth of Cape Girardeau will speak at the Sikeston Rotary Club Monday night.

Rotarians and their Anns will meet in Banquet Room C of the Ramada Inn at 6 p.m. The governor's wife, Judy, will join the Rotary Anns in an adjoining room for a special program to be given by Clara Eisenbach.

Rotarian Melvin McMackins was in charge of the Rotary program Sept. 8 and had as his guest Rotary Ann Mildred McMackins and Mrs. Velma James. The women are members of the Cape Girardeau National Secretaries Association and ga ve a program concerning the professional organization. NSA is a national professional organization providing various services for its membership.

Local chapter meetings provide a wide range of informational programs dealing with the duties, responsibilities and opportunities in their vocational field. The local chapter also performs many community public services. The national organization provides training seminars and inspirational and entertaining programs during the annual national meetings. Membership is by invitation. Members adhere to an organizational code of ethics and the secretary's creed. Mrs. James defined a secretary as, "The person who projects the first image of the business to the outside world."

W.F. Wilferth

2 bound over for trial

NEW MADRID --Two Portageville men, John Gott and Joey Nowlin, were bound over to Circuit Court Thursday for trial on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle after they waived a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

Bond was set at $500 each for the two, who are accused of removing a stereo tape player and nine tapes from a car parked at Plastene Supply Co. in Portageville.

Jay Partee waived a preliminary hearing on a cheat and defraud charge. He also was placed under $500 bond and ordered to stand trial in Circuit Court.

James Henry Moseley, who pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, was fined $125, given a six -month suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for one year. His driver's license was suspended for one year.

Camille Henderson was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $39 on a public intoxication charge.

Fined $20 each were Richard Lynn Ford, charged with operating a motor vehicle with an out -of -state license, and Charles Edward Cuff, operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license.

Fined on speeding charges were: Stephen Russell Lloyd, $44; Stanley P. Sierakowski, Con Leon McArthur and Joseph W. Meyer, $30 each; George Byon Tompras, Louis Lesley Condict and John Wilton Anderson, $25 each; Dixie Jean Leonberger and Glen Allen Williamson, $20 each; and Joseph Leo Abby and Lillie Mae Barnes, each forfeited $50 bonds.

In candlelight ceremony

Miss Boyer, May united

Wedding vows uniting Miss Rosalie Boyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Boyer, 523 Delmar St., and Richard May, son of Mrs. Bertie May of Morley, were exchanged at 7 p.m. Aug. 17 in Tanner Street Church of God.

The candlelight setting for the double -ring ceremony, performed by the Rev. Vernon Guttenfelder, the pastor, was provided by white tapers in a 15- branch candelabrum graced on either side with arrangements of white and green chrysanthemums on white pedestals. Small green candles entwined with lilies of the valley set in each of the stained glass windows of the church completed the summer setting.

Pre -nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Jean livingston, organist, who also accompanied the bride's aunt, Mrs. Audrey Beck, as she sang "Because", "We'll Walk With God" and "The Lord's Prayer". Traditional wedding marches were also played.

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her father, was attired in a gown of her own design. The formal -length gown was fashioned along princess lines with a protraint neckline edged with Chantilly lace. The long tapered sleeves were also edged with matching lace.

Her headpiece was a tiny flower caplet with lace floweres and seed pearls and a double tier veil of silk illusion. She carried a classical bouquet of white sweetheart roses and baby's breath with white satin streamers.

Miss Vivian Boyer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Benita Beck, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They wore matching formal gowns of green whipped cream crepe featuring empire waistlines, portrait necklines and ruffled flounce skirts. They carried nosegays of green and white carnations with white streamers.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with white ruffled shirt and wore a white carnation boutonnier.

Joe May of St. Louis, brother of the groom, served as best man, and Larry Beck, cousin of the bride, was junior groomsman. Joe Bill Davis of Benton and David May, of St. Louis, nephews of the groom, and Winford Farrar of Morley were ushers. The best man, junior groomsman and ushers wore black tuxedos with green ruffled shirts and matching green carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride chose a blue, polyester double knit dress made along princess lines featuring a high white collar and short sleeves. The mother of the groom wore a blue and grey diagonal striped dress featuring long sleeves. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Misses Colleen and Lisa Pastula of Struthers, Ohio, cousins of the bride, attended the guest register. They wore identical dresses of green whipped cream crepe with empire waistlines and ruffled flounce skirts.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church fellowship hall.

The bridal table was covered with a white lace cloth. At opposite ends of the table were a silver coffee service and punch bowl. The three -tiered wedding cake centered the table and was accented with white sweetheart roses, tiny green chrysanthemums and baby's breath and encircled with white daisies and greenery. Two silver candelabra with green tapers also accented the bridal table.

Mrs. Glenda Davis of Benton, Mrs. Patti Marsden of Sikeston, Mrs. Rita May of St. Louis, Mrs. Lois Pastula of Struthers, Mrs. Alberta Davis of Benton and Mrs. Charlotte Gooch of Decatur, Ga., served at the reception.

Out -of -town guests were:

Walter Pastula of Struthers, Ohio; J.D. Gooch and Tim Gooch of Decatur, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Walker, Malinda Walker, Sherrie Walker and David Wayne Walker of Jackson, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jones, Valerie Jones, Sherril Jones and Mary Beth Jones of Fenton.

Mrs. William Daugherty and Mr. and Mrs. Mose Boyer and children of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boyer of Dexter, Jim Bob Davis and Robbie of Benton; Miss Frances Jones of New Madrid; and Mr. and Mrs. David Baker and Jonathan of Long Beach, Calif.

The couple lives in Belleville, Ill.

Ann meets Dr. Hatem, 'most beloved American in China'

I had a luncheon date today and nearly fell in love. I'm sure Jules wouldn't mind if he knew the man. He is Dr. George Hatem, 63, born in Buffalo, N.Y., of Lebanese parents, raised in Chapel Hill, North Carolina, and he is the most beloved American in The People's Republic of China.

Our date, in the regal dining room of the Peking Hotel, was arranged by two people who didn't even know each other. Mrs. Edgar P. Snow, a mutual friend who lives in Switzerland, wrote to Dr. Hatem, and Dr. Grey Dimond of Kansas City telephoned Peking in my behalf when he learned I was going to China.

I wanted especially to meet Dr. Hatem because I had been asked to write a piece for the Reader's Digest, "Sex Among China's Teen-agers. Do They Or Don't They?" I felt Dr. Hatem would be an excellent source since he is the man who performed the miracle of getting rid of prostitution and eradicating VD in the People's Republic.

Dr. Hatem (affectionately called Ma Hai Teh -- which means "Virtuous One From Overseas") went to Beirut in 1929 to finish his medical education, then on to Geneva, Switzerland for his degree. He selected dermatology as his specialty and decided to spend a year in China studying tropical medicine.

In 1933, "Dr. Ma" went to Shanghai. He was appalled by the poverty and wretcheness of the masses and was ready to return to America and set up practice. Then he met the late Agnes Smedley (the only American woman buried in Peking's National Revolutionary Martyrs Memorial Park). She and her friends persuaded him that Mao's fighters desperately needed medical help, so he cast his lot with them against the invading Japanese and decided to stay.

Working behind the lines as a physician-civilian, Dr. Ma carried with him half of a five-pound note, to be matched with the other half, in order to get behind the Kuomintang lines.

He made the Long March to the Great Wall in 1935 (300,000 people started and only 30,000 made it to Yenan one year later).

Dr. Ma fell in love with a beautiful Chinese actress in 1936 and married her. They now have a son, a daughter and four grandchildren.

The good doctor recounted how "we" (he is so modest he shuns the personal pronoun "I") rounded up the prostitutes, discovered 90 per cent had VD, cured them with penicillin and rehabilitated them by changing their thinking. They were told, "You are not to blame for your plight - you have been exploited and sold into prostitution. In the New Order you can be respectable and hold good jobs. We will help you."

Many prostitutes became nurses, teachers, office and factory workers. "And then," Dr. Ma continued, "we trained cadre corps to recognize VD symptoms and we undertook a massive survey by drawing up questionnaries and doing house-to- house canvassing in search of cases. We held public meetings and educated the people so they wouldn't be ashamed of their illness. We pleaded with them to step forward to be treated. The battle cry was 'the cure is sure! Treatment is free! We cnnot take syphilis and gonorrhea into the New Order.' "

Dr. Ma's confidence in this mind-boggling victory was complete and convincing. He said, "I would invite a group of venerealogist from any country to go through our cities and test one million people. I'm sure they wouldn't find more than a handful of cases."

This beloved man still has his American passport but he hasn't been "home" since 1929. The American Medical Association issued him a formal invitation. If he accepts, this column is an open invitation to come to Chicago and the lunch is on me.

Area relatives, friends attend

BLODGETT -- In addition to the children of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fodge and out- of- town guests and relatives listed in Tuesday's edition of The Daily Standard, many friends and relatives from the Sikeston and Blodgett areas attended the Fodge's 50th wedding anniversary celebration Aug. 18 at the Blodgett Community Building.

Butter has been made since ancient times when it was used as medicine and as fuel in lamps, as well as food.

East Prairie Eagle football coach Ed Nichols, looks on intently as the Eagles march deep into Illmo- Scott City Ram territory Friday night in the second period. The Eagles scored a touchdown to take a 7-0 lead but the Rams came back to win the game 12-7.

Rams extend win streak

EAST PRAIRIE — Illmo-Scott City trimmed the Eagle wings Friday night and clipped them 12-7. The rams continued their winning streak, Coach Bill Wilthong, The Daily Standard coach of the year in 1973, has a 20 game winning streakgoing for him.

The Eagles gave the Rams a scare for the first half. Half-time score 7-0 East Prairie. East Prairie controlled the first half and looked as if they were going to upset the highly touted Rams. In the second quarter quarterback Grady Willford passed for 30 yards to tight- end Kem Marks to the Rams three. On the next play fullback Danny Johnson crashed off guard for the score. Mark Mars converted to give the Eagles a 7-0 lead.

With eight minutes left in the third quarter the Rams right halfback Steve Hanschen returned an Eagle punt to the Eagles 20. After a sustained drive Fullback Mark Short scored on a one yard plunge. The conversion was missed. Eagles held a slim 7-6 advantage.

With five minutes remaining in the ball game Illmo- Scott City recovered an East Prairie fumble on the Eagles 28. The Rams drove to the Eagles seven. On fourth down Ram RHB Steve Hanschen sweep left end for a seven yard score. Point after was missed.

The Eagles put a scare into the Rams on the last play of the game. The Eagles were on the Ram eighteen, passed into the End-zone and a Ram defender decided to sacrifice a penalty rather than let East Prairie score. The game ended with the Eagles on the Rams 18. This was the first game to be played by the Eagle Varsity on their new field.

Indians streak

HAYTI — Coach Jerry Cecil's HHS Indians won their first game of the 1974 football season here Friday night by romping over hapless South Pemiscot 38 0.

The Indians rolled down the field in the first period as the Bulldogs' defense couldn't contain the big running backs of the Indians.

Quarterback Jimmy Morgan and halfback Eddie Martin punched into the endzone for two touchdowns apiece.

Morgan scored from the six yard line for a 6-0 lead, Morgan fom the three yard line, Martin again from the six yard line. Eddie Martin ran across for a two poi. conversion. Patrick Thomas scored a two point conversion twice in the period and Hayti led 24-0 after the first period.

In the second quarter on the first play from scrimmage for Hayti Jimmy Morgan passed to Alex Clinton for a touchdown and the extra point try was missed and Hayti led 30-0.

Coach Cecil used his reserves the rest of the way and the final TD came in the third period on a three yard run by halfback Danny White. Morgan ran for the two poinnt conversion and the final was 38-0.

Devils lose

CHAFFEE — The Chaffee Red Devils fell to the St. Vincents Indians 21-27 Friday night in the season opener for both teams.

Chaffee scored in the first period on a 61 yard pass from Scott Wachter to Mark Whitaker. Wachter kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead. The Indians quarterback, Randy Winklep, tossed a one yard pass to Dick Wengert to put St. Vincent's on the scoreboard. Wengert kicked the extra point to tie the score.

Indian Scott Beeson ran one yard for the lead. Winkler threw to Wengert for the two point conversion in the second quarter.

Martin Shaffer sprinted 11 yards for another Chaffee Touchdown. Wachter passed to Corky Von Kessel for the two point conversion. The Indians Beeson went two yards for another St. Vincent goal although the extra point attempt was missed. Chaffee's Mark Whitaker was dumped on a pass reception late in the third quarter and received head injuries, forcing him out of the game.

The Indians Wengert ran off- tackle for 23 yards and the winning touchdown of the game. 'Devil quarterback Wachter threw to Von Kessel for the final score of the game. The extra point attempt failed.

Cards go overtime

The St. Louis Cardinals pulled to within a half game of the first place Pittsburg Pirates early this morning by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3 in a 17- inning game in Philadelphia.

The game, which started at 6:20 Friday night, was delayed for an hour and 40 minutes after the Cardinals scored five runs in the top half of the 17th inning to break a 2-2 tie.

The game ended at 1:05 Bootheel time.

Bulldogs face KC's Irish

The small but spirited Sikeston Bulldogs bring their act home Saturday night for a 7:00 o'clock encounter wih the Lillis High School Fighting Irish. The Irish, despite a losing first encounter, promise to give SHS a huge, well disciplined opponent before the first home crowd of the 1974 gridiron season.

Lillis, despite being a 2-A school, boasts a starting offensive line that averages 197 pounds per man. They used this size to good advantage last week against big school, Kansas City Manuel, battling the Cardinals through a tight first half, before a disabling injury to quarterback Rich Friday led to the Manuel 26-6 win. The score at half was a narrow 7-6, Manuel, and three of the winners' scores were provided bytheir defense. The Manuel offense never did sustain an offensive drive, with their other score counting on a long bomb.

Sikeston was involved last Friday in an even more exciting contest, dropping a 766 decision to Farmington by just a hair. The Bulldogs had a second quarter score called back and gained 80 yards more than their larger hosts, but failed on a 2- point conversion attempt in the fourth period and absorbed their sixth consecutive setback, dating back to last October.

"They'll probably have the biggest team seen on the Sikeston field in several years," Sikeston coach Terry Smith said ruefully referring to the huge Lillis offensive and defensive linemen. Sikeston will be outweighed at several positions on the line by as much as 50 pounds. However, last week the Sikeston line, operating at comparable weight deficits, appeared t o be very proficient at blocking for the Sikeston backs. Coaches were "very pleased and encouraged" by the effort by the small, but very auick Sikeston linemen.

Lillis will be a passing team and, for the second week in a row, it'll be tough to predict the game's outcome. The Sikeston defensive backfield is yog and very inexperienced and, last week, they werytried just four times. This week there will be much more pressure on the four deep backs and linebacker Ron Priday, a standout at a linebacker position in last week's game, has been moved back there to give some help.

With the reinstatement of the junior high program last year, Sikeston fans hope that the Bulldogs program is headed for at least an approximation of the dominance Sikeston held on SEMO football in the 50's and 60's. A loud, enthusiastic crowd followed the Dogs to Farmington lastweek and they had to be encouraged by the fighting spirit showed by the battling, young Bulldogs. With the Bulldogs returning to their home turf Saturday, they could use a repeat of the good crowd support they received last Friday to give them the needed impetus to overcome the terrific size disadvantage they will face.

"This week we've been talking all along about David and Goliath," Smith said. A big, loud, enthusiastic crowd could provide the Bulldogs with a big slingshot.

DHS out muscles Indians

JACKSON — The Dexter Bearcats had too much muscle for the young JHS Indians Friday night and claimed a 31-21 opening season victory.

Coach Paul Webber's inexperienced Tribe broke on top in the opening quarter when Ray Lacey galloped 70 yards to give the home town fans a quick lead. But that was short lived as Joe Satterfield dashed 25 yards with a pass from Greg Mathis to even the game at 6-6 in the first period.

Dexter stormed ahead in the second quarter on the strong arm of Mathis, who passed to Paul Fairless for a 10 yard score and to Satterfield for a 50 yard TD with 15 seconds left in the first half.

Coach Clyde Vaughn's Bearcats a 24-6 lead in the third period when Jay Lemonds stepped off three yards for a score.

Jackson battled back with a 15 point fourth period, but let DHS sandwich a 50 yard scoring dash by Lemonds in between two TD's. Kent Gibbs returned an interception 34 yards and Bob Birk added the extra point. Birk passed to Darrell Sides with 1:13 left in the game for a 42 yard score and ran the extra point, but the visitors stalled the clock out the rest of the game.

Charleston wins opener, 23-14

CHARLESTON — Coach Sam Gill's Bluejays opened their 1974 football season with a 23-14 victory over the Portageville Bulldogs here Friday night.

The Bluejays jumped on top with a 19 yard pass from quarterback Keith Quertermous to Clint Clark. Kevin Hess kicked the extra point and Charleston led 7-0.

In the second period the same combination of Quertermous and Clark Clicked for a 57 yard touchdown. The extra point try was no good and the Bluejays led 13-0. Portageville scored a touchdown before the half came to a close as Tommy Bile scored from the two yard line and Charleston led 13-7 at the half.

The final Bulldog TD came in the third period as LaVonne Fountain blocked a Charleston punt and ran 30 yards for a touchdown.

Greg Johnson raced 13 yards for a touchdown in the fourth period and Ralph Mitchell ran for two points. Greg Johnson caught the Bulldog in the endzone for a safety and the final score was 23-14.

Golf at CC

A mixed pairs golf tournament is scheduled at the Sikeston Country club golf course this weekend. Tee off in the event was held today and the tournament will conclude with the final 18 holes Sunday.

BERTRAND --Sikeston First National Bank defeated Malone and Hyde 14 -4, Thursday night in the Bertrand Slow Pitch Softball Tournament.

Buddy Spears connected for a home run to lead Russell's Kwik Serve to a 30 -4 victory over Matthews in the last game of the evening.

Bertrand Lions will face North Acres General Baptist Church Saturday night at 7 p.m. This game will be followed at 8:15 by a game between the Tanner Street Church of God opposing Wyatt.

MILWAUKEE (AP) The Milwaukee Brewers Friday named Tony Siegle their farm director.

Indians blank MHS

KENNETT — Coach Bill Arment's KHS Indians kicked off their gridiron season in fine fashion Friday night with a 13-0 victory over Dunklin county rival Malden.

The Tribe's defense was superb, not allowing the Greenwave with 25 yards of their goal line throughout the night.

Kennett broke on top in the first inning on a one yard plunge by Terry Shands and the point after kick by Larry Johnson.

A second inning TD was nullified as the game was dominated by quite a few penalties.

The Tribe's final score came on an eight yard scamper by Rick Moore in the fourth quarter.

Kennett hosts defending Northern Division league champ, Poplar Bluff, next Friday night while Malden takes on Illmo- Scott City.

Kitchen safety report topic

RISCO --Safety in the kitchen was the topic of a report given by Sherri Eakens at the Sept. 3 meeting of the Risco -New Hope 4— H Club at the community room of the Farmers State B ank.

Brent Landers presented a discussion on "How to Get Better Flash Photographs" and Wayne Blough reported on his recent trip to the Missouri State Fair in Sedalia.

During the program a skit, entitled, "How not to Conduct a 4 -H meeting," was presented.

Fifteen members of the club attended the meeting at which Miss Eakens, club secretary presided. Wayne Blough led the American pledge and Trena Joyce the 4-H pledge.

Breakthrough nears in soybean diseases

By Joe H. Scott
Missouri agronomy Specialist

Cotton is opening slowly in the Bootheel. Cool, wet weather has delayed maturity. Leaf diseases brought on by recent cold weather is causing much cotton to drop leaves. Although we don't like to see this in cotton as can cause immaturity of fiber it may be beneficial in tall cotton that is losing much of its bottom crop to bollrot.

We have fields all across the Bootheel that have heavy boll loads. We will need a lot of sunny weather from now through October if we hope to harvest this crop. Most growers won't start picking until October.

We get quite a few questions about the progress being made in producing a soybean variety resistent to the Race 4 cyst nematode. We have found the Race 4 nematode showing up in a number of fields this year planted to Mack, Forrest, Dyer and Pickett - all of which are resistant to the Race 3 nematode.

Dr. Grover Shannon our soybean breeder at the University of Missouri-Columbia's Delta Center at Portageville has been been making crosses this summer between varieties that are adapted to the bootheel and promising Race 4 tolerant strains. Progeny from these crosses will be screened against Race 4 tolerant strains. Progeny from these crosses will be screened against Race 4 in the greenhouse this winter. Field trials are being conducted this summer on Race 4 infested soils. One hundred and twenty lines with tolerance to cyst nematode are being compared with Forrest and Mack on this infested soil.

The tolerant lines that Dr. Shannon is testing this summer came from a cross made in Mississippi between a sister line of Forrest and a Manchurian strain with Race 4 resistance. From these crosses Dr. Shannon and his co-workers hope to get Race 4 tolerant lines that will have yield potential nad the other good qualities of the Forrest and Mack varieties.

In a six-year average comparison in irrigation studies at the Delta Center, early maturing soybean vaiieties showed the greatest response and the late varieties showed the least response to irrigation. Early varieties responded more readily to irrigation vecause pod set and pod fill occured during late July and early August when hot dry weather was more of a problem. Under irrigation, early varieties yielded as well as commonly grown late varieties when irrigated, but were lower than full season varieties under no irrigation. Late maturing varieties showed less response to irrigation as moisture was less of a problem during pod filling and weather was cooler. This information is presented in our Fall Field Day booklet.

Soybean cyst nematodes annually cost $50 million in lost soybean yields in Southeast Missouri alone.

"Race 3 has hit over a million acres in this area, but htere are varieties resistant to it," said Shannon. "So far, however, no resistance to Race 4 has been found."

But the Delta Center scientist is optomistic. He hopes to have at least one Race 4 resistant variety to release to growers in three to four years.

Shannon, who has been working with the Department of Agriculture to develop disease resistant soybean, will report this cooperative research at the Delta Center Field Day here Tuesday.

"Getting the resistance into acceptable strains hasn't been easy," said Shannon.

"We had to use unadapted soybean types. They are poor in yield, prone to lodging and shattering, have poor seed quality and are not very adapted to growing here. Then we've had to take these poor types with disease resistance and cross them with something that was acceptable.

"After we cross resistant lines with commercially adapted varieties we screen progeny from these crosses in the greenhouse, put them on Race 4 infested soil in the field, and reselect them for resistance again.

"It's taken some time because inheritance of resistance to cyst nematode is complex. We should have an acceptable resistant variety for release to growers in three to four years."

Shannon said he's working on soybean varieties of several different maturity groups to get them adapted to a wide area.

"We're working with strains similar in maturity to Clark in Group 4, Mack and Forest in Group 5, and Pickett in Group 6," said Shannon. "This should give us resistance in a wider range of soybean maturity."

Resistant lines used in the Delta Center research program were obtained from the USDA Soybean Collection at Urbana, Ill., and Stoneville, Miss.

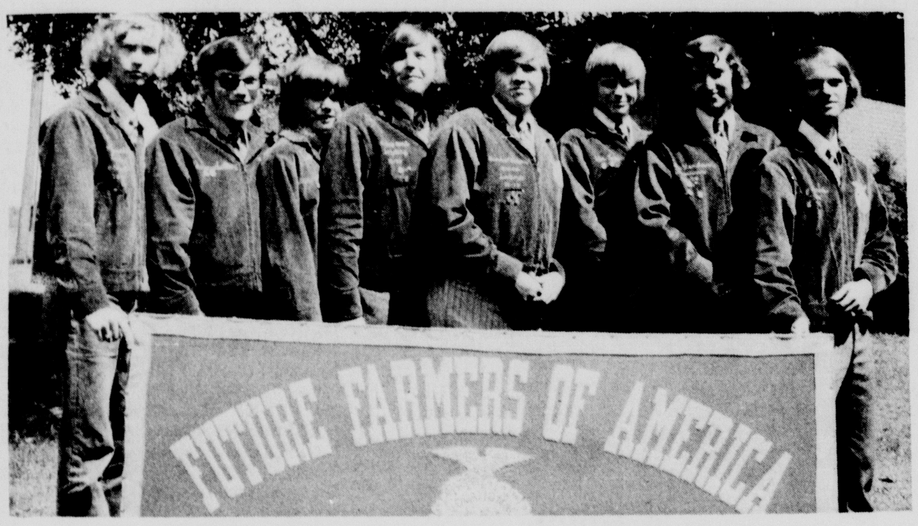

Cyst nematode has been spreading fairly rapidly throughout the soybean growing areas. They have been carried by wind, birds, water, and by other means of soil movement to several states.

"Resistant varieties will certainly lower the toll the disease might take," said Shannon.

1975 farm program announced

NEW MADRID -- Basic provisions of the 1975 wheat, feed train and cotton programs will be the same as 1974 programs, according to Larry Blunt, director of the New Madrid County ASCS Office.

There will be no set-aside acreage or conserving base requiremtnts for participation in any of the farm programs for 1975. Farmers will again be able to plant all the wheat, feed grains or cotton they desire to plant.

Expert calls alfalfa weevil problem 'serious'

SPICKARD -- Alfalfa prices are soaring. Trouble is, so are the numbers of alfalfa weevils.

"The alfalfa weevil problem is serious," Jim Huggans, University of Missouri-Columbia entomogolist, told the farmers attending the North Missouri Field day — Friday.

"If you don't treat with an insecticide, you'll lose the first cutting and a lot of the second because of the stress the larva or adults can put on the plant."

Cost of the treatment runs about $2.50 to $4 per acre.

"That's a good investment," said Huggans. "At today's prices you can get your money back if you can get just two more bales per acre!"

Huggans said alfalfa weevil populations in 1974 were higher in north central Missouri than in any other part of the state. He checked population in 20 different Missouri locations this past season.

"We are making some headway on population, especially in the southern part of the state," said Huggans, "but the problem is not going away.

"On the plus side, parasite numbers are building. These are natural enemies of the alfalfa weevil which hleps to keep it in check.

"One that moved in with the weevil looks the best. This is Bathyplectes curculions which has now spread statewide. It knocks about 30 or 40 per cent of the weevils, but we still need insecticides to take care of the pests on the plant."

Huggans also told about two alfalfa varieties which have shown some tolerance to the alfalfa weevil: Team and Weevilchek.

"They're good," said Huggans, "but still hard to get. Anyway, we still have to used some insecticides with them. Their yields aren't any better than the production we get from other varieties when we use insecticides."

Huggans said the best way to control the alfalfa weevil is to use a good management program. That includes not cutting the alfalfa after Sept. 15, fertilization, and doing a clean job of removing hay.

"Insecticide timing makes quite a difference, too," he noted . "The temperature should be over 60 degrees, and it shouldn't rain for at least a day and, preferably, two after the insecticide is applied."

Operating costs force producers out of business

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High operating costs and low returns are forcing farmers to abandon hog production and the result may be higher pork price at the meat counter early next year, according to experts at National Stockyards near East St. Louis, Ill.

"In six or seven months, hog receipts will be down sharply. After the first of the year, the number will decline and prices will go up," predicts Frank Patton, manager of the Farmers Livestock Marketing Association office.

"The number of sows being sold has been running eight to 15 per cent more in volume than a year ago," Patton said. "They (farmers) are going to cut down their hog operations or get out of the business completely, at least for awhile."

The association is a farmers co-operative and acts as a go-between for farmers and packers. It is the largest commission firm at the yards, handling 35 per cent of the hogs brought in each day — about 2,000 animals.

High grain and fuel costs, coupled with lower prices on the hoof are contributing to the farmers' abandonment of the hog business.

Patton pointed out that feed corn was $1.57 per bushel last year and that it costs over $4.00 now. He said soybean meal has doubled and tripled in price from a year ago.

Last year at this time, hogs were selling at about 52 cents per pound, while last week, they brought only 38 cents a pound.

Alfred Spaunhorst, the operator of a 250-acre farm near Villa Ridge, Mo., says farmers would like to see hog prices back near the 50-cent level.

"All the farmer is asking is a return on the cost of production plus a little profit," said Spaunhorst, who operates a National Farmers Organization hog collection point.

The collection point is part of the NFO's project called "Little Porker," which is designed to slaughter, freeze and ship 500,000 feeder pigs to foreign countries in an attempt to reduce the number of hogs available here. Feeder pigs weigh 50 to 60 pounds and are about four or five months away from maturity.

"This means that 87,000,000 pounds of dressed pork will not make it to the shelves," said Spaunhorst, 46. "The farmers are really quitting. There's just not going to be any meat around."

Joseph A. McClure of the U.S. Department of Agriculture rejects the theory that operation "Little Porker" will have much effect on hog markets.

"We slaughter on the national level 300,000 hogs per day. The 500,000 feeder pigs would make up only a day and a half of an average kill," McClure said.

He agreed however that because of the large number of sows being brought to market and the farmers' desire to get out of the hog business, receipts will be down 10 per cent "about eight months from now."

"For the small farmer, hog production is a money-losing proposition," McClure said.

Both Patton and Spaunhorst agreed that 1975 would bring higher pork prices.

"I don't know why consumers should growl about food going up. They don't complain when cars go up. The price of beer rises, they still drink," Spaunhorst said.

Patton said big food retailers are to blame.

"The retail price of meat this year has gone up 20 per cent. Retailers collected it with no qualms while the farmers got nothing and the consumers paid the bill," Patton said.

SCS provides aid in conservation measures

BENTON-- Many people do not know the services that are available to them through the Soil Conservation Service.

There is an office in Scott County, located in Benton, where you call or visit for assistance in related soil and water conservation measures.

There are very few activities performed on the land that do not fall under this classification. Farming, recreation, waste management, plant cover, cover for wildlife, and critical are seeding are a few of the catagories covered in services available to the public.

Services are available to all regardless of race, color, creed, sex or financial status. Help is free for technical assistance and an effort is made to be as prompt as scheduling will permit.

The Soil Conservation Service has specialist to assist you in agronomy, engineering, biology, soil scientist, soil conservationist and farm forrester and other resource poeple, covering every aspect of our land and natural resources.

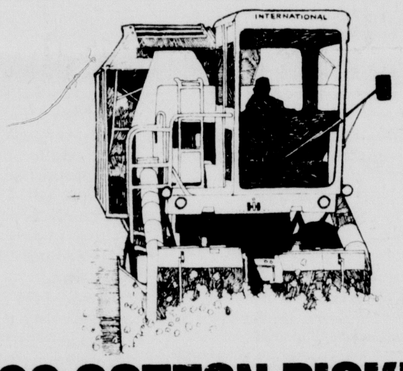

These services are available because Scott County has a Soil and Water Conservation District, and the district board can and does request these services for you.

OUT OUR WAY — by Neg Cochran

THE FAMILY CIRCUS — By Bil Keane

"My hand didn't get shooked."

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Sept. 14, the 257th day of 1974. There are 108 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, President William McKinley died in Buffalo, N.Y., from gunshot wounds inflicted by an anarchist. Vice President Theodore Roosevelt was sworn in as President.

On this date —

In 1628, the second settlement in Massachusetts, Salem, was chartered by John Endicott.

In 1778, Benjamin Franklin was sent to France as an American minister.

In 1812, Russians set fire to Moscow after an invasion by Napoleon Bonaparte.

In 1940, Congress passed the Selective Service Act. It was the first peacetime draft in U.S. history.

In 1945, after World War II, Premier Higashi-Kuni of Japan said the people of his country would forget the devastation caused by the atomic bomb if Americans forgot Pearl Harbor.

In 1963, Mrs. Andrew Fischer of Aberdeen, S.D., gave birth to quintuplets.

Ten years ago: The third session of the 21st Ecumenical Council opened at St. Peter's Basilica at the Vatican.

Five years ago: For the fifth time in less than a week, Israeli warplanes attacked Egyptian military objectives on the west shore of the Gulf of Suez.

One year ago: Atty. Gen. Elliott Richardson decided to let evidence gathered against Vice President Spiro Agnew go to the grand jury investigating charges of corruption in Maryland.

Today's birthday: Actress Zoe Caldwell is 41 years old.

Thought for today: No grand idea was ever born in a conference, but a lot of foolish ideas have died there — novelist F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Mizzou opens at Ole Miss

COLUMBIA, Mo. --Ol' Mizzou the nations 18th ranked team in the AP poll, takes the Big Eight football show into Mississippi for the first time in that state's history in an opener this Saturday night in Jackson.

Tiger Coach Al Onofrio's fourth Missouri team will challenge the Johnny Rebs in their own hostile backyard --Mississippi's Memorial Stadium --before an estimated turnout of 35,000 spectators.

Launching the series here last year, Missouri stopped Ole Miss, 17 -0 – out -yarding the visitors 365 to 153. Kenny Lyons, senior Rebel quarterback, stepped in for injured Norris Weese in that meeting, and shared the leadership role with Stan Bounds.

Lyons will direct rookie coach Ken Cooper's multiple sets against a touted Missouri defense this time --while Onofrio taps senior Ray Smith, a junior college transfer from Santa Maria, Calif., to direct the Bengals' Power "I" attack.

Smith, a 195- pounder, started Missouri's final season game against Kansas in 1973 -- and was at the controls for the 34 -17 Sun Bowl win over Auburn. He will be backed up Saturday night by rangy Steve Pisarkiewicz --a sophomore red -shirt from Ferguson, Mo. --who, it is anticipated, will give the Tigers' more of a passing image than has been their personality.

Both teams go into the season with stable, solid defenses. The Tigers return eight regulars on defense, after losing senior tackle Dennis Vanarsdall for the year with a broken leg. Ole Miss has seven starters back, led by big Ben Williams, the 253 -pound all -SEC tackle.

Looking forward to a season in which Missouri has been picked to finish among the nation's best 20 football teams by several magazines, Onofrio thinks his team is ready for its 1974 baptism. But he frets about the uncertainties of first -game combat.

"You always worry about how your new men will react under fire," he says. "And that first -scrimmage injury to both quarterbacks has been a factor in getting good execution."

The Tigers ostensibly are deeper in backfield talent this year, but only three offensive line starters are seasoned performers --tight end Don Muse and guards Steve Sadich and Don Buck. How well and how soon can this remodeled frontfill the voids created by the loss of all -America center Scott Anderyon, all -Big Eight tackle Jim Schnietz and tight end John Kelsey?

Onofrio is concerned about the kicking and kick return game which featured field -goaler Greg Hill and speedy John Moseley, who led the conference in punt and kickoff runbacks.

New coaches butt heads

CAPE GIRARDEAU- Southeast Missouri State University begins its football campaign Saturday and for the seventh consecutive year Delta State College of Cleveland, Mill., will provide the Indians' opposition in the season opener.

This year's game is in Cleveland with a 7:30 p.m. starting time.

Southeast Missouri State's new head coach, Jim Lohr, said the Statesmen "probably have a little more depth all -around than we do," and he expressed concern about the size of the Delta State defenders. He also observed that the Mississippians are reported to have perhaps the best running backs in the school's history.

But he added that the Tribe is both mentally and physically ready for the contest and said, "If we do the best we can, we can win."

The coach continued, "My biggest worry is our quickness on defense. And we're not as fast on defense as we were last year. So we will have to do everything right to compensate for our lack of speed and quickness.."

The Statesmen also have a new head coach this fall in Robert McGraw. However, unlike Lohr, who has installed a veer offense at Southeast Missouri State, the new Delta State head man is apparently sticking with the offense which former coach Horace McCool used effectively in past years. The Delta State offense is listed as the pro -I.

McGraw was faced at the start of practice with replacing 16 starters --eight on offense and eight on defense. He had 30 returning lettermen to choose from as well as a large number of junior college transfers.

Of top concern was finding someone to fill the shoes of departed quarterback David Bradberry, the Gulf South Conference's "Offensive Player of the Year" in 1973. Ten days ago Bobby Barrett (Jackson, Miss.) and Milton Driskell (Lucedale, Miss.) had the best shots at the job.

Delta State's highly -touted running backs include tailback candidates Billy King (Stringer, Miss.) , Willie Dickson (Greenwood, Miss.), and Terry Goodwin (Enterprise, Miss.). Fullback prospects include Sammy Boles (Jackson, Miss,) and Terry Goodin (Enterprise, Miss).

Indications are the Deltans, given their fine running backs, will attempt to stick to the ground. McGraw acknowledged, "We'll be running the ball a lot." However, he noted, "We feel we will be able to throw when the situation calls for it."

Lohr, on the other hand, has 25 lettermen on hand. Six returning offensive starters and five returning defensive first stringers are in his tentative line -up for Saturday night.

Among the returning offensive starters are senior Ed Slaughter (Cape Girardeau), senior Carl Gross (Cape Girardeau), and senior David Goncher (Sough Chicago Heights, Ill.).

Slaughter, Gross, and Goncher, in that order, were the Tribe's top pass receivers in 1973. Couple this with the fact that the Indian quarterback will be Rick Wieser of Topeka, Kans., an All -American transfers from Fort Scott, Kans., Community College who threw for more than 1,500 yards last season, and it could be that the Indians will go to the air often.

Delta State posted an 8 -3 record last season. All of the Statesmen losses came in Gulf South Conference action, and they finished third in the league race. The Mississippinas beat the Indians 20 -12, and they have dominated the series between the two schools, 10 -3 -1. Southeast Missouri State last won in 1969. The tie was in 1971.

Southeast Missouri State finished 1973 with a 6 -4 record. However, the Indians won the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship, losing only to Northwest Missouri State University of Maryville in conference action.

Sports

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Sabres tore up winger Craig Ramsay's contract and gave him a new one—"one he deserves," general manager Punch Imlach said Thursday.

Imlach said the pact was a multiyear agreement. Ramsay had one year to go on his old contract.

Ramsay, a 5-foot-10, 180pounder from Toronto, was the Sabres second-round choice in the amateur draft in 1971. He scored 20 goals and had 26 assists last season.

Thieves take items from Essex home

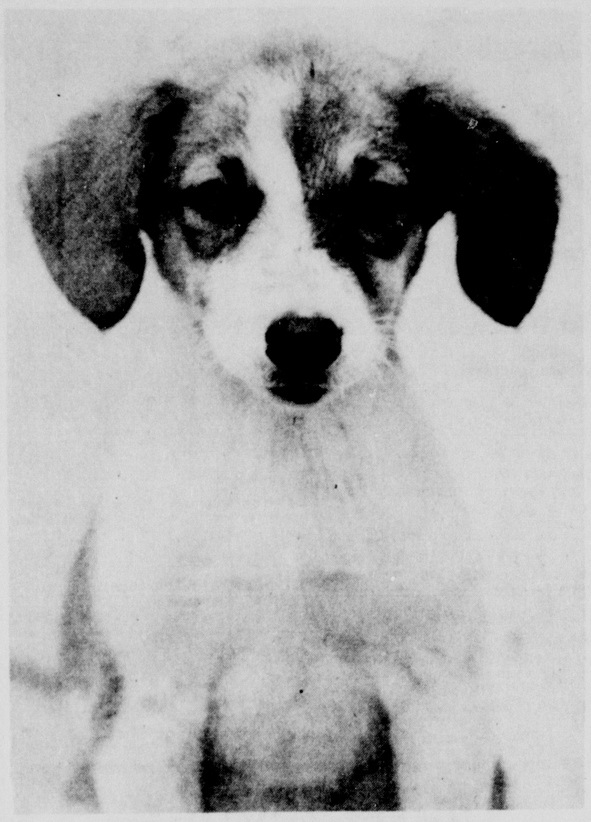

ESSEX — Thieves pried a screen off a window at the home of Lawton James here sometime between 7:45 and 10 p.m. Wednesday and escaped with a number of items, the Stoddard County sheriff's department reported.

Taken were a black and white television set, a tape player, a portableradio, a stereo and recorder, a half bushel of apples and $1.

The items were valued at approximately $300.

No. 1

Southeast Missouri Hospital at Cape Girardeau.

An accident occurred at 7:10 a.m. on Highway 34 in Marble Hill when a westbound car driven by Edward Paschal, 48, of Springfield swung wide on a curve and struck an eastbound bus driven by Avery Rosewell Crites, 59 of Lutesville.

Both drivers received minor injuries.

Debbie Miller, 25, and Michelle Miller, 4, of Cape Girardeau suffered minor injuries at 10:50 a.m. on Route K west of Cape Girardeau.

The accident occurred when Mrs. Miller's car skidded on wet pavement, went off the road and struck a dirt embankment.

What's the law?

The case of the buxom passenger

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Betty had a figure that could have defrosted an Eskimo. Nevertheless, when she asked Wilbur, a bus driver, to help her aboard his vehicle, he didn't move a muscle to assist her.

Highly insulted, Buxom Betty proceeded to board the bus on of her own. Unfortunately, she lost her balance, slipped and fell on her well-cushioned derriere.

Picking herself up slowly, Betty sued the bus company for her injuries.

"Wilbur was no gentleman," she charged in court. "What's more, when passenger requests aid in getting on a bus, the driver is required to comply."

"Maybe when you're dealing with an old lady," was Wilbur's answer, "but, in Betty's case, she was in fantastic shape. In fact, the only reason she fell was because she was furious at me and wasn't paying attention to where she was walking."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the bus company liable for Wilbur's failure to aid his buxom passenger?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that in the event a passenger is blind, sick, aged, very young, crippled or infirm, and the condition is apparent or made known, the operator of a bus is required to render necessary aid in assisting the passenger to board or alight from the vehicle. And, if he fails to do so, noted the judge, or does so carelessly, the bus company can be held liable for resulting injuries.

In this case, concluded the judge, since Betty was apparently in good shape and the step was normal, Wilbur had no obligation to help her. (Based upon a 1960 Florida Supreme Court Decision).

Contracts let for graveling

DEXTER — Two local gravel companies Wednesday night offered separate bids to the board of education on the proposed improvement of Pilot Lane, a partially blacktopped lane running east and west just south of the high school. The road is in need of grading and gravel improvements in conjunction with the proposed building of a new junior high school to be located near the high school.

Two individual contracts were approved by the board, securing Lemons Gravel of Dexter for the operation. The bid submitted by Lemons estimated grading for the price of $2,150 and the gravel job for $2,240. The bid was the lowest submitted and was approved.

Present to confer with board members on the proposed improvements were Gary Gains and Darrell Orr, representatives of Trotter and Associates of Dexter, who are assisting in the engineering of the operation.

Bills in the amount of $87,269.37 were approved by the board. Broken down, the figure represents $22,065.83 allotted for teachers fund bills, $37,771.45 for regular incidental fund bills, $6,658.69 for incidental lunchroom bills, $6,273.45 for incidental high school activity bills, $69.70 for elementary activity bills, $7,147.95 for textbook bills and $7,282.30 for building fund bills.

Sikeston architect Bob Stearnes met with the board and presented a detailed drawing of the proposed junior high building. Stearnes informed the board that professional photographs for publication use would be available later.

The board approved the admission charge to basketball and football games recommended by Supt. T. S. Hill. Admission for adults for both activities will be $1.25 and 75 cents for children.

The board also approved the purchase of one van-type bus for the purpose of transferring a few multiple handicapped local children to Poplar Bluff's diagnostic clinic. The bus, which is equipped to transport as many as 16 passenger, will arrive in Dexter within the next week. It was purchased from Superior Bus Co. for $6,000 and is fully equipped to meet state regulations.

Hill stressed the need for such a bus in the school program, stating that such a facility is needed in various field trips and other small group rides, rather than the use of a 66- passenger school bus.

Hill "hopes for consolidation" in the present recreational activities committeemen who have requested the use of Dexter school gymnasium facilities for the purpose of united group sport activities through the winter months.

The Community Recreation Committee, headed by Lewis Jones, has requested the use of the school gymnasium on several weekdays and weekends. A problem arose when some area groups, which have met on their own and secured the same facility for several years, decided they would rather remain a separate group rather than join forces with the community project. The problem will be discussed by individuals involved in the projects.

It was decided by the board that allowance for school employes who use their own transportation for various school- related meetings, etc. would be allowed an additional two cents over last Year's dime allowance for gas. Such costs are state reimbursed, Hill explained.

A motion was approved to hire Jack Woodruff as the new custodian at Dexter Junior High School.

Also passed was a motion to employ D. E. and Linda Carpenter as 1974-75 bus drivers. Linda Carpenter is also scheduled to drive the newly purchased van bus.

8 precincts eliminated

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Court has authorized the elimination of eight county voting precincts. In each of the eight being eliminated, less than 35 persons voted during the August primary election.

The eight being eliminated will be consolidated with nearby larger precincts to make more convenient and economical voting places. The eight former precincts are: Asherville, Charter Oak, Lavalle, Powe, Kinder, Birds Corner, Circle City and Shawan.

Asherville will be consolidated with Puxico; Charter Oak, with Marco; LaValle, with Marco; Powe, with Bernie; Kinder, with Leora; Birds Corner, with Gray Ridge; Circle City, with Gray Ridge; and Shawan, with Bell City.

County Clerk John Marvin Capps estimates more than $1,600 will be saved at no loss in service by the elimination of the eight precincts. Several costs will be reduced, the most prominent being the costs of election workers.

The minimum number of election workers it takes to man a precinct is six. Elimination of the eight precincts reduces the number of election workers by 48. At $26 per day salary, that eliminates $1,248 in salaries.

Also eliminated are fixed precinct supplies costs of $50.78, according to Capps.

The former precincts were a poor investment for taxpayers. In Lavalle, for example, only 14 persons voted in the primary election. The average cost per vote was $17.14. Only 19 persons voted at Charter Oak for an average cost of $12.56.

In addition to the costs of supplies and precinct workers, some rents will be saved by eliminating the eight precincts.

Combining the eight with other precincts will not make any overly large precincts. For example, only 19 persons voted at Charter Oak and 14 at Lavalle. They are being consolidated with Marco which had 46 voters for a total of 79.

However, these totals could go up in an election which has a normal turnout. About only 30 per cent of the total electorate voted in the primary election.

Although taxpayers are paying for the privilege of voting, they apparently are refusito go to the polls. No matter what the size of the voter turnout is, most election costs are fixed, such as the number of precinct workers, rents and many supplies, Capps said.

$690,000 bond issue at Bernie

BERNIE — Bernie school district voters will be asked to approve a $695,000 bond issue on Sept. 24 for the purpose of constructing an addition to the elementary school building, an addition to the high school building and other improvements.

The issue will require a two-thirds majority for passage.

School officials point out that the building presently used as a junior high school is more than 50 years old, and school officials have been advised to vacate it as soon as possible and to build a new structure. Remodeling of the present building is not economically feasible, school officials have been informed by building experts.

Building experts have estimated that it would cost over $250,000 to make the necessary repairs on the basic structure, "still leaving us with a half- century- old building," school officials said.

"Your board has deemed this repair program unsound and after consulting with architects on the manner, unanimously recommend we replace the old building with new ground- floor classrooms."

The architectural firm of Donnellan and Porterfield of Poplar Bluff is handling the architectural work on the new facility.

Including in the proposed new facilities will be classrooms for the elementary school, a physical education facility with showers and lockers, a new library, in addition to facilities for music and special education departments for the elementary school.

For the junior high, the proposed new facilities would include a new science department, together with a wing of five new classrooms, in addition to bus loading and unloading facilities.

If the bond issue is approved, the older building can be vacated and removed from the grounds, it was pointed out.

Approval of the bond issue is being urged by Supt. Elmer Dunn and all members of the board of education.

Coal strike could bring major crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — If a threatened coal strike becomes reality this winter, its impact would be an energy cut-off almost three times worse than last winter's Arab oil embargo, experts agreed Friday.

But instead of hitting the driver and home-owner directly, as the oil embargo did, a prolonged coal strike could quickly hampr steel production and then bite into electric power generation.

The nation already faces expected natural gas shortages that may slow industrial activity this winter.

Federal and private experts say the outlook for petroleum fuels is good, but they, too, may become tight if trouble in the gas and coal supplies shift the energy burden to oil.

George Hall, fuels manager in the Federal Energy Administration's petroleum allocation program, said in an interview the optimistic petroleum outlook assumes normal winter weather and a willingness by Arab oil producing nations to meet U.S. needs.

But coal now looms as a far larger question mark.

Of the 590 million tons of coal mined in the United States last year, some 75 per cent was produced under the United Mine Workers labor contract which expires this November, a UMW spokesman said. The National Coal Association, a trade group of mine operators, makes the same estimate.

If the UMW were to stage a completely effective strike in November, halting that much production, it would cut off some 1.2 million tons of coal daily.

That is an amount of energy equivalent to some 4.9 million barrels of oil per day, or about 13 per cent of the nation's total daily energy use at 1973 levels.

By comparison, the Arab oil embargo at its worst cut off about 1.7 million barrels of oil per day, or about 4.5 per cent of total energy.

The UMW spokesman said the steel industry reportedly has coal stockpiles enough to last about two weeks and a longer strike would cut into steel production.

The spokesman said a prolonged coal strike would start hurting electric power generation in the East after about a month, in the Midwest after 40 to 60 days, and in the West after some 80 to 120 days.

At a panel discussion last Monday, Lawrence Goldstein, of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, warned that the electric industry has little ability to switch from coal to oil in such an emergency.

Trash pickup schedule given at N. Madrid

NEW MADRID A schedule for citywide collection of solid waste has been announced by the contractor, W.W. Masterson, owner of Masterson's Refuse.

Beginning at 8 a.m. Tuesday, the once -a -week pickup will be in the area east of Mains Street. and will also include Main Street and St. Jude subdivision.

Pickups will be made on Wednesday in the area west of Main Street to, and including, all of Kingshighway from Waters Street north to Riley's Gin.

On Thursday, all of the area west of Kingshighway to the city's boundaries, including West Acres subdivision will be serviced.

All refuse to be picked up msut be in a closed metal or plastic container with a tight fitting cover, or in plastic bags and placed along the curbs of the streets.

Masterson said there will not be any pickups made from alleys until further notice.

Nixon not ready for hospitalization

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon has a new and painful blood clot in his left leg and is suffering from "severe strain and physical fatigue," his doctor said Friday.

But Nixon is "mentally alert" and hospitalization has been ruled out at Nixon's request, the doctor, Air Force Maj. Gen. Walter Tkach, said in a statement that a Nixon aide relayed to newsmen by telephone.

The statement did not say how serious the clot is, and the aide refused to call the former White House doctor to the telephone.

Nixon has been suffering from phlebitis, an inflammation of a vein, for several months. The ailment created the first clot.

"There is a new veinous clot in the former president's upper left leg," Tkach said.

"I have found the former president to be suffering from severe strain and physical fatigue, but he is mentally alert and has been working at his office at home each day.

"The leg is swollen and painful. The clot from the earlier phlebitis, which is still present, causes the former president periodic pain.

"Serious consideration was given to hospitalization, but it has been ruled out at this time based on former President Nixon's wishes.

"The former president will continue to receive medication and will be under doctor's care, and an evaluation will be made on a weekly basis by Dr. Lundgren and myself."

Dr. John Lundgren is a Long Beach internist with a specialty in cardiology who has been the Nixon's family doctor for many years. Tkach said he had examined Nixon on Friday morning after arriving here from Washington and had consulted with Lundgren, who examined the former president Tuesday in Palm Springs.

Lundgren's receptionist said he was out of town — "not in San Clemente" — and would not return until Monday.

A Washington source said the purpose of Tkach's trip was to "determine on the scene whether he (Nixon) should be hospitalized."

President Ford said he was concerned about Nixon and had asked for regular reports from his own physician, Navy Rear Adm. William Lukash, who is keeping in touch with military personnel in San Clemente and the neighboring Camp Pendleton Marine Corps Base.

Theft reported

BLOOMFIELD --The Stoddard County Sheriff's department is investigating a theft which occurred sometime Friday at the display tent located at the Bloomfield Homecoming ground and city park.

Taken in the burglary were three afagans and two capes belonging to Mrs. John French, who had placed the items on display.

Several other items owned by the Elder Manufacturing Co. were also taken. These included: one white CPO jacket, one green sports jacket, one vest and a boy's size 16 coat.

7 injured, 3 seriously, in 4 SeMo accidents

Three Van Buren residents received serious injuries and four persons received minor injuries in four Southeast Missouri traffic accidents Friday.

The patrol said Fred Prummill, 65, Opal Maye Prummill, 73, and Michael Percy, 2, of Van Buren were seriously injured at 11:15 a.m. on Highway 60, 12 miles west of Poplar Bluff.

According to the patrol, Prummill lost control of his eastbound pickup truck on slick pavement, ran off the road and overturned three times. He was thrown from the truck.

All three were taken to Poplar Bluff Hospital.

An accident occurred at 12:30 a.m. on a county road three miles east of Cape Girardeau when a westbound car driven by James P. Goldrick, 17, of Cape Girardeau was coming down a hill, skidded on the pavement and struck a tree.

Judy MaCann, 17, of Cape Girardeau a passenger in the car, received minor injuries and was taken to

Auditor suggests refunds

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri state Auditor John Ashcroft said Friday he has recommended that the federal government reimburse 10 local governmental units a total of $102,431 in disaster aid assistance.

The recommendation, submitted to the federal Office of Emergency Preparedness for final review and approval, was $18,000 lessb than requested by the units. Ashcroft's recommendation followed audits of the disaster relief claims resulting from last spring's floods and high winds.

Only in the case of the Doniphan Special Road District did Ashcroft recommend rederal reimbursement of more than was requested by the governmental unit. The Doniphan district had sought $1,671 but Ashcroftl recommended reimbursement of $1,686.

Recommendations for the other nine were:

Clay County, $52,184; Western Road District of Platte County, $16,624; Byrd Road District of Cape Girardeau County, $3,252; the city of Hunnewell, $5,427; the city of Belton, $7,610; Naylor Road District of Ripley County, $2,194; Ripley County, $8,456; Buffalo Township in Dunklin County, $2,108, and the city of Commerce, $2,890.

Ad violation called to Standard attention

It has been called to the attention of the management of the Daily Standard that this paper was in violation of revised Missouri Statute 129.300 when it published a full -page advertisement on Aug. 20, 1974, urging write -in votes for H.H. "Bud" Townsend and Charles Spitler in the New Madrid County general election scheduled for Nov. 5.

The law says that any advertisement for a candidate for political office must be signed by the person who places the ad and that that signature also must contain the address of the person or persons who placed it. If a committee is formed to place the ad, then it is sufficient for the name and address of the chairman and treasurer to be used. If there are no officers in the committee, then the laws says that if 10 or more persons join in paying for the ad, it will be in sufficient compliance for the names and addresses of only 10 such persons to appear. It has to contain the words "paid advertisement," too.

The names were omitted from the Aug. 20 ad. Persons placing the ad were Ron Jaynes of Parma, chairman, and Roger Jaynes of parma, treasurer.

Scott countians accident prone

Do residents of Scott County lead safer or more hazardous lives than people in other parts of the country?

Are they more liable or less liable to be involved in an accident of some sort -- automobiel or otherwise -- during the course of a year?

According to government statistics, local people seem to be more accident - prone than the average.

The accident figures for the local area and for communities in other sections of the United States were compiled by the Public Health Service as part of its annual vital statistics surveys.

All types of accidents were taken into account, whether they occurred in the home or at work, while driving, swimming, boating or hunting.

Based upon the last three annual reports, fatal accidents in Scott County have been averaging 23 per year, with 11 of them attributed to autombiles.

Included in the figures are all accidents in which local persons were involved, wherever they happened. Exclused were those affecting non- residents.

Related to population, the toll in the area was at the rate of 68 fatalities per 100,000 people during the three - year period.

It was a higher rate than was found in most other communities in the United States, where the average was 58 per 100,000. The rate in the state of Missouri was 64.

Throughout the country, according to the National Safety Council, about 1,000 fewer persons died in traffic accidents in 1973 than in 1972.

It attributes the unusual drop to the fact that people did less driving and traveled at reduced speeds toward the end of the year because of the energy crisis.

Accidents have been responsible for a huge economic loss in recent years, it finds. The average over the last three years is placed at $29 billion a year. This takes into account loss of wages, medical expenses, insurance payments, reduced production and property damage.

Scott County's proportionate share of this cost, applying the average loss per accident locally, is approximately $5,796,000 a year.

Firemen to get pay hikes

CHARLESTON — Pay increases for volunteer firemen were approved Friday, according to City Manager Willis Downs, who said the favorable solution to the firemen's request for pay raises was reached after he reviewed the city budget and met with Fire Chief Joe Johnson.

Pay for daytime calls was increased from $2 to $4 and night time calls from $3 to $5 for the first hour of work. Extra time at fires ill bring firemen $2.50 an hour, a dollar increase per hour.

A four man delegation of volunteer firemen attended Tuesday night's city council meeting and threatened to resign if their requests for raises were not approved.

They cited the rising cost of furnishing their own equipment, plus having to pay for any damages to their automobiles which might occur while answering fire calls as reasons for requesting the raise.

Downs said Fire Chief Johnson had requested the pay increases in July and they had been under consideration, but the budget for the year had not included the necessary funds.

Arrest warrant issued

CHARLESTON — A warrant was issued Friday by Prosecuting Attorney Clifton Banta for the arrest of Lavern Frazier of Charleston, charging him with selling alcoholic beverages without a license.

Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons said Frazier sold three cans of beer to Missouri liquor agents Jim Moore, Monte Johnson and Richard Irwin at the Town and Country club on Highway 62, West of Charleston Wednesday night.

The club is private and owned by Frazier and Frank Betts of Charleston.

Simmons and Deputy Sheriff Robert Smith and Norris Grissom, confiscated about $300 worth of beer, whisky and wine Wednesday night from the club, and told Frazier charges would be filed after the prosecutor received the report from the liquor agents.

He will be arraigned Thursday in Magistrate Court.

Hunting violation notices issued

Federal Fish and Wildlife agent Ed Nichols of Sikeston told the Daily Standard today that his office is in the process of issuing violation notices against 15 persons cited for federal hunting violations during the dove season that opened Sept. 1.

Among the 15 are four who were cited in New Madrid County on the opening day of the season. Missouri Supreme Court Judge John E. (Jack) Bardgett of Jefferson City; New Madrid County Prosecuting Attorney Hal E.Hunter Jr., Bardgett's 13-year old son, Bruce, and Noranda Aluminum executive Bob Phipps Pulliam of New Madrid.

The foursome were cited by special agent Dan Searcy of Illinois for a variety of offenses.

Judge Bardgett was cited for "taking a protected bird," Hunter and Pulliam for "possession of untagged birds" and young Bardgett was cited for over possession of dove.

Twenty- two of 39 birds that were in Hunter's truck were confiscated.

Hunter told the St. Louis Globe- Democrat, which unveiled the charges in a story by political editor Jack Flach, that none in his hunting party shot more than their limit. He said he and Pulliam were told they would be cited for having untagged birds, which he termed "ridiculous."

Searcy claimed that federal law requires all birds to be tagged by the owner and none in Hunter's truck were. Hunter said he thought a bird had to be tagged only when it was in transport.

Nichols said that each person receiving a "violation notice" has the option of requesting a trial or hearing or forfeiture of a collateral bond which is set by law. He said if hearings are requested they most likely would be conducted in U.S. Magistrate Court at Van Buren.

"In an aggravated type of case, which none of these are, we file complaints with the U.S. District Attorney's Office," Nichols said.

Nichols confirmed that the three adults were among those who are to receive violation notices. "Actually, two juveniles were involved, but we turn those charges over to the state agent in the county and he normally takes it up with the juvenile officer," Nichols noted.

Leestamper new SMSU president

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Robert E. Leestamper, 45, of Worcester, Mass., has been chosen as the next president of Southeastern Missouri State University.

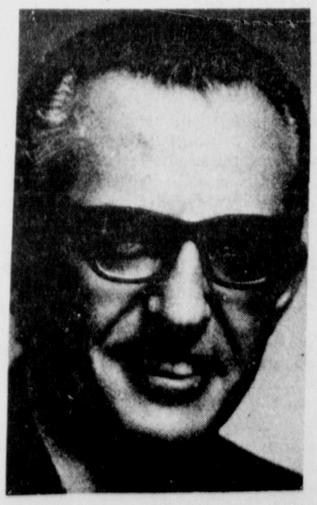

The school's board of regents announced the selection Friday.

Leestamper, president of Worcester State College, will take over the position July 1, 1975 when Dr. Mark S. Scully retires from the post.

The regents' announcement said Leestamper was chosen from 152 applicants after an eight month-long search.

He has been president of Worcester State for five years and holds degrees from the University of Minnesota, Columbia and Harvard.

Scully has been president of Southeastern Missouri State for 20 years.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The boy that leaves home to set the world on fire usually has to come back for more matches.

Some 15,000 babies will be born with cerebral palsy this year in the United States. Some of those children of course will be here in Sikeston, and will need the kinds of services provided by United Cerebral Palsy of Scott- Mississippi- New Madrid Counties.

Cerebral palsy is a complicated set of medical conditions which can severely limit an individual's ability to grow up normally. But some of its effects can be minimized with proper attention.

This is why United Cerebral Palsy of Scott-Mississippi- New Madrid Counties is again turning to the community for financial help in providing the kinds of services which will make a difference: vocational and occupational therapies, medical care, psychological counseling, recreational programs and a host of other programs all aimed at helping the individual develop to his fullest capacity.

The direction and intent of these programs is highly commendable: to enable those with cerebral palsy who can do so to live in the community, to help them develop their individual potentials - both physical and emotional - and to relieve the disproportionate hardship on the family of a cerebral palsied individual.

Even with the pioneering work of the United Cerebral Palsy Associations, Inc. and the 300 affiliates in the United States, cerebral palsy is expected to affect one child in 200 born this year. Statistically, 20 people out of every 5,000 manifest one or more symptoms of cerebral palsy.

These are the facts in 1974. They can change as better prenatal care becomes available, as dedicated researchers find now answers, as thousands of volunteers and skilled professionals work with cerebral palsied youngsters on a day-to-day basis, and as those of us in the community support all of these efforts through United Cerebral Palsy of Scott-Mississippi -New Madrid Counties.

"God gives every bird his food, but He doesn't throw it into the nest." This thought, taken from another newspaper's editorial, applies to all of us. Surrounded and pampered by many modern conveniences, the average American family enjoys a standard of living far beyond the dreams of many people in the world. Even our poorest, if they have the will, will find the American ladder of success is blind to social status, race, creed or sex — all kinds of people have managed to scale it, and many more will before tha last chapter of U. S. history is written. The freedom for each individual to fulfill his potential is there. All it takes is determination and a willingness to work and learn from others who will teach you.

EVADING TAXPAYERS' WRATH

Concealing taxes at the local governmental level by turning local businesses into tax collection agencies is a favorite political tactic to avoid the wrath of taxpayers. Local electric companies and providers of other utility services have been targets of this tax collecting device.

One of the latest attempts to evade a direct confrontation with taxpayers is the proposal of a metropolitan Oregon county to impose a three percent tax on the gross revenue of electric, gas steam, telephone and telegraph utilities operating in the unincorporated areas of the county. One electric company spokesman said the amount his firm would have to pay under the proposal would equal the entire corporate income tax the company pays to the State of Oregon. Another spokesman called the proposal a selective sales tax. It would, of course, be passed on to utility customers in higher rates. Others noted that the proposed tax would discourage the growth of industry in the country. A representative of a steel company said that in the case of his firm it was not a question of passing on the increased cost of utilities to the consumer in the steel business, it was rather a question of "...passing on the business to competitors in Japan or Germany."

As publicly-regulated enterprises, utilities--such as electric power companies--have no cushion in their rate structure for the absorption of the punitive tax schemes of local politicians. The bottom of the tax barrel has been reached. Every conceivable hidden tax is already levied. Elected representatives of the people at the local government level as well as at higher levels of government will find it increasingly difficult to evade facing voters and taxpayers with the price tag in higher taxes for soaring governmental costs.

HUMAN DESTINY

The eminent scientist Le Comte Du Nuoy, author of Human Destiny, had the following to say about the influence people exert which makes them remembered:

"The destiny of man is not limited to his existence on earth. He exists less by the actions performed during his life than by the wake he leaves behind him like a shooting star. He may be unaware of it himself. He may think that his death is the end of his reality in this world. It may be the start of a greater, more significant reality.

"We cannot but be concerned by the disproportion between the duration of a man's life and the duration of his influence on future generation. Every one of us leaves a trail, either modest or brilliant, and this conviction would make itself felt in all the facts of our lives."

FLYING WITHOUT WINGS

The spider has no wings. Yet he can fly, sometimes miles. Nobody knows for certain which creatures were first to take to the air. But we do know that the spider was taking long journeys through the sky long before man ever dreamed that flying was possible.

The spider is the most widely-distributed insect, and one of the oldest. So far as we know, he has been making airships on which to travel ever since he first appeared. He is found in all parts of the world where the climate is not too severe, and it is believed this is because of his flying ability.

HIs ships are made of small silk threads which he spins and allows to float out into the air. He makes most of his flights in the fall of the year.

When getting ready for the "take off," he perches himself high upon a tree, a stalk, or old building holding tightly with his long legs. Then he begins to spin out long silk strands which harden as they strike the air, rise, and float with the wind. These are lengthened and multiplied until they will hold the weight of the spider. Then he launches out into space.

On a bright, autumn day, hundreds of these silken threads may be seen projecting from the spider's hideout, extending into air, ready to begin a flight. All that's needed then is a gentle breeze, and the spider is gone.

Spiders have been known to cross lakes seas, and even oceans on these frail ships of gossamer web.

However, the spider aviator cannot guide his course, and must travel with the wind, but he can land any time. While flying, he lies on this back to better control the ropes on his "ship." If he grows tired or hungry, and wants to land, he does just what a human aviator would do under the same circumstances. He begins to pull in his ropes. As they become shorter, he drops nearer to earth. When almost to earth he extends his ropes again to break his falling speed, landing safely upon his feet!

If he cannot find food after looking around, or does not like the place, he again takes a position on a high stalk or bush, begins throwing out new threads until they are long and strong enough to bear his weight, and with the first wind he "takes off" again.

Spiders have crossed mountains, deserts, and coninents into unknown lands on these frail "airplanes." They sometimes land on vessels hundreds of miles from shore.

While most of us do not have a lot of love for spiders, we do know that as spinners, artists, builders, and aviators, they still perform feats impossible to man.

While the Langleys and Wrights were wondering if man could ever fly, Mr. and Mrs. Spider were already making long solo flights in gossamer ships of their own invention, and are still doing it with far fewer accidents than men have.

PURE FOLLY

Major segments of the transportation industry have moved to prevent nationalization of the nation's transport systems by urging passage of federal legislation designed to strengthen surface carrier transportation as a private enterprise. The alternative is to let it be driven into government ownership by archaic laws, regulations and taxation that have come near to crippling regulated segments of the industry such as the railroads.

It was largely to remove the threat of nationalization that in 1971 the regulated water and motor carriers joined with the rails in urging passage of the Surface Transportation Act of 1971. For example, the president of the American Trucking Associations observed: ". . . we believe the provisions of the Surface Transportation Act of 1971 represent the greatest bulwark against the most serious threat we have to a sound transportation system. I am speaking of the threat of nationalization - the fate that has overtaken transportation systems in virtually all parts of the world."

It is easy to talk about government taking over a basic U.S. industry, but few apparently realize the implications of nationalization of the nation's railroads. A step of this kind would bring an additional backbreaking burden to taxpayers. It would mean burgeoning bureaucracy. It would solve none of today's transportation problems. As taxpaying, private enterprises, the railroads serve 45,000 communities on 206,000 miles of line. They have a national fleet of nearly 1.8 million freight cars and 29,000 locomotives generating more than 50 million horsepower to keep U.S. trains on the move. The rails employ almost 600,000 persons with annual wages and fringe benefits in excess of $6.5 billion. Rail purchases total more than $4 billion annually. Finally, in addition to payroll-related taxes, the rails pay to the Internal Revenue Service about $500 million per year.

OHIO DRIVER LICENSES TO BE COMPUTERIZED

Ohio's Bureau of Motor Vehicles is installing computer terminals in 210 driver license issuance offices located throughout the state. When the terminals are fully operational later this year, thyBureau will be able to issue first and duplicate drivers' licenses over-the-counter.

In addition to the convenience of over-the-counter issuance of licenses, the new terminal system is expected to increase greatly the accuracy of reports maintained by the Bureau for law enforcement purposes.

The Toro Company conducted a survey of leading golf course superintendents who use thyhigher horsepower engines on large turf maintenance equipment in order to determine what effect the energy crisis would have on purchase and use of this equipment.

The common thread that ran through the superintendents' reports was that labor costs far outweigh fuel costs. Any increase in fuel costs only makes it that much more important, they said, to reduce labor costs through the use of sophisticated, labor-saving equipment.

THEY DIDN'T GET THE JOB

WASHINGTON - President Ford has been putting his new White House staff together. We have heard about the people who have been hired for his Administration, but we haven't heard anything about those who, for one reason or another, didn't get jobs.

Here are some of the people and what they said to President Ford which gave him pause about hiring them:

"Now, Mr. President, I think the first thing you should do is to install a recording system in the Oval Office. In that way you can tape the conversations of everyone who comes in your office."

"NEXT!"

"Mr. President, it's not too early to think about your election in 1976. I have a plan for your approval here. What I would like to do is set up a committee for your election which would be in complete charge of raising funds and directing your campaign so you wouldn't have to be bothered with the details. We would call this group the Committee to Elect the. . . . "

"NEXT!"

"All right, Gerry, being President is fine, but you have to think about your future after you're out of office. Your best bet, as I see it, is to invest in real estate. Now what I will do is talk to a few rich friends of mine and we'll buy you some land and then we'll get the government to fix it up and . . . ."

"Mr. President, there is no reason why you shouldn't take advantage of the tax laws just like everybody else. Now if I were on the payroll, I would see that you got every last possible deduction you were entitled to. First, we'd work out something for your papers from the time you were House minority leader. I think, staying within the law, you wouldn't have to pay more than $800 a year. Of course, I'd need your power of attorney and. . . ."

"NEXT!"

"You ask me what I can do for you, Mr. President? I'll tell you what I can do for you. There are a lot of people in this country out to get you. What I would do, if you gave me the job, would be to set up some sort of clearinghouse where we could keep a list of your enemies. Everyone on the White House staff could contribute names to the list, and then I would turn the names over to the Invernal Revenue Service and ask them to sudit them and. . . . "

"NEXT!"

"Your biggest worry, Mr. President, is leaks in the White House. What you need is your own special group which would prevent our secrets from getting out. Now the important thing is that since this group could be involved in some illegal activity, such as breaking and entering, wiretapping and forging papers, you would have to keep it from everyone, including the FBI. . . . "

"NEXT!"

"Howard Hughes asked me to give you this letter of recommendation. . . . "

"NEXT!"

"Sir, if I might be so bold, the most important person a President needs is a Jesuit priest. There are times when you will have to defend yourself over an action that could be considered by some as morally wrong. What better person to have in your corner than a humble man of the cloth who could. . . . "

"NEXT!"

"Mr. President, I believe the first thing we have to do to bring the country together is grant a full pardon to Nixon. This would heal the wounds and put the bad dream of Watergate behind us."

"Hmmnnn. When can you start?"

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

by Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON - With President Ford calling for government austerity, we have decided to help him by keeping a watch on waste. We will publish reports from time to time on government extravagance.

Postmaster General Ted Klassen, for example, ordered local postmasters to send postal vehicles to private garages for servicing. His idea, apparently, was to save the fuel it requires to drive the vehicles to government repair centers.

But the private garages unhappily have been charging up to 50 per cent more for parts and repairs. When the extra charges are multiplied by 103,000 postal vehicles, the result adds millions to the cost of delivering the mails.

To make matters worse, the 5,000 employes of the government garages are now sitting around with little to do.

We have obtained postal documents which show some of the price differences the taxpayers have underwritten. In Fort Lee, N.J., for instance, a private contractor charges $3.50 for a gas line filter that is available for 38 cents in government maintenance centers.

A battery in Teaneck, N.J., set the taxpayers back $44.90. The same battery costs only $17.86 in government garages. The taxpayers also got stuck with a $58 bill for two new universal joints, which were available at government garages for $4.12.

We made spot checks in Detroit, Los Angeles and other cities, where we found similar examples. All across the nation, apparently, the taxpayers are paying excessive repair charges.

We also have found evidence of waste in the "star routes" which link post offices in different cities with airport terminals and other transportation outlets. Private contractors move the mail over about 14,000 star routes at an annual cost over $262 million.

Government auditors concluded after an investigation that 16 of 85 star routes in Illinois could be eliminated, saving about $185,000 not to mention 88,000 gallons of fuel.

The Illinois example, according to our information, is typical of the waste in other states. Since the 85 routes which the auditors investigated represent less than one per cent of all star routes, the waste could be staggering.

Mail delivery, meanwhile, is deteriorating.

Footnote: Postal spokesmen say they are taking corrective action to straighten out the star routes and the maintenance mess.

ILLEGAL TRIP? A congressional delegation, headed by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., has just returned from mainland China where they made headline news.

Now constitutional authorities tell us that the study mission may have been illegal, because it was financed largely by the Red Chinese.

The Constitution states unequivocally that no federal employe shall accept any "emolument . . . of any kind from any King, Prince or Foreign State."

The House Ethics Committee was recently asked to interpret this clause. Concluded the committee: "Acceptance of travel or living expenses in specie or in kind by a member or employe of the House of Representatives from any foreign government, official or representative thereof is . . . prohibited."

Apparently, the Senate leadership was unimpressed by the House action which, incidentally, was endorsed by the General Accounting Office and the State Department.

In a memo quietly circulated, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Hugh Scott claimed that "participation (in foreign-paid trips) is in interest of the Senate and the federal government and the nation."

The Senate leaders noted that their own Ethics Committee didn't prohibit such trips. Since the constitutional ban provides no penalty clauses, senators apparently feel free to accept the hospitality of foreign governments.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: With the departure of former President Nixon and his top aides, apparently no one is left at the White House who recognizes all the voices on the Nixon tapes. This makes it difficult for the White House to transcribe the conversations demanded by the courts. Judge John Sirica, who took pains to make a study of the voices, is able to recognize them. . . There are more than 900 Nixon tapes, filed only by dates. It is a staggering task, therefore, to pick out the specific conversations requested by the courts unless the dates are given. . . So many men have claimed that they once played football with President Ford that a former Ford aide told us he has now met "about 300 people who played football with him at Michigan."

Inside Labor

by Victor Riesel

'Disgusted' by Jackson: Labor Chiefs See No Acceptable '76 Presidential Candidates in Either Party.

NEW YORK -- It was much like a long-ago, class- reunion, rip- roaring party in the cavernous halls of the Hotel Commodore here, the landmark hostelry to which traditional labor chiefs can wander in their sleep, they've been meeting there for so many decades.

It was Primary Day night. And the old New Deal team had won a smashing victory for their Democratic party gubernatorial candidate -- Congressman Hugh Carey. Thus, though the nation knows it not, the labor regulars had made history and were whooping it up. The word team is used very advisedly here -- labor's stalwarts such as the laborite latter-day Jim Farley, the Seafarers' Paul Hall, had woven together a coalition of union veterans and such political hall of fame names as Mrs. Herbert Lehman, Averell Harriman, ex-Mayor Wagner and even tiny Mayor Abe Beame.

The Labor Committee for Hugh Carey, headed by another veteran, Sam Kovenetsky, vice president of the Retail and Wholesale Department Store Employees Union, had been the ramrod force in smashing the old political machines allied with the New Politics crowd, which had officially given someone called Howard Samuels, the ex-betting parlor director, the official nomination.

Thus the victory of Congressman Hugh Carey really was a labor victory, an AFL-CIO victory, a win for the Committee on Political Education which, under its raspy director, Al Barkan, had thrown whatever it could to smash the New Politics bid for the governorship of New York.

If this November Hugh Carey defeats Nelson Rockefeller's surrogate, incumbent Gov. Malcolm Wilson (and there now is a strong chance Carey can) -- itwould put the old- labor-New Deal-Fair Deal-Great Society alliance in control of the state capitol and the delegation to the 1976 Democratic National Convention.

I do believe there would have been no Carey primary victory had it not been for the powerful and strategic support thrown him by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the Transport Workers, the International Longshoremen's Assn., the Machinists and a string of small "internationals" such as the Leather Goods Workers. The national significance of this is being overlooked.

Why? Because, despite the New Politics success in capturing delegates to the Democrats' national mini-convention in Kansas City this December, the traditionalists inside labor have unleashed formidable precinct vote- gathering machines everywhere.

In any tight presidential race, the Democrats just can't win without powerful labor support. And at the moment the Democratic National Committe which met in Washington the other day just doesn't have a candidate that can unite the labor movement behind him (or her, of course).

First, there's a strong Republican labor coalition to consider. On Primary Day eve, it too celebrated. Some 700 union chiefs, mostly in the construction trades, but with influential white-collar leaders among them too, whooped it up in a special room at the Yonkers Raceway. They drank. They ate. They shook hands with their candidate Gov. Wilson. They bet on the horses. They went home broke but full of solidarity.

Secondly, the national AFL-CIO headquarters has disowned the Democratic National Committee. Labor president George Meany says he has nothing to do with it, doesn't even know its chairman Robert Strauss, and doesn't plan to go to the mini-convention.

Third, labor wants a winner. It doesn't believe Ted Kennedy can outrun Chappaquiddick. And Meany -- which means most of the AFL-CIO executive council -- is completely "disgusted" with Sen. Scoop Jackson. And not only because the Washington Senator appeared to be brainwashed in Peking recently, according to Meany's intimates, but because of Jackson's stand on trade with Soviet Russia.

Meany and many of his most influential colleagues just don't trust Scoop on the negotiations with the Soviets. The labor chiefs don't really want Soviet trade -- and certainly not at the low 6 per cent interst for long-term credits. So Meany conferred privately with a spokesman for the Jewish Labor movement last week and with Sen. Jack Javits and Ribicoff this week.

Meany and a few of his vice presidents made it clear that while they are among Israel's staunchest friends, they don't want trade to hinge alone on the Soviets' pledge to permit Jewish and other dissidents to emigrate, as does Jackson.

What guarantee is there that once the Russians get most-favored- nation treatment (lower tariffs) Moscow's pulitburo won't break its word, harass the dissidents and defy the U.S.? Meany and his vice presidents want guarantees of permanent monitoring of the Russians and control of their exports to the U.S. and a better break on credits, etc.

The labor people believe Jackson has crossed them on this and is willing to settle for a political victory.

Thus, since the AFL-CIO executive council won't take Kennedy or Jackson or a New Politics McGovernite typified by Howard Samuels in the New York guvernatorial primary race, who else is there? Labor is hanging loose. It could swing in any direction.

But for the moment the tract is empty. Dark horse, anybody?

The local chapter also performs many community public services. The national organization provides training seminars and inspirational and entertaining programs during the annual national meetings. Membership is by invitation. Members adhere to an organizational code of ethics and the secretary's creed. Mrs. James defined a secretary as, "The person who projects the first image of the business to the outside world."

2 bound over for trial

NEW MADRID --Two Portageville men, John Gott and Joey Nowlin, were bound over to Circuit Court Thursday for trial on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle after they waived a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

Bond was set at $500 each for the two, who are accused of removing a stereo tape player and nine tapes from a car parked at Plastene Supply Co. in Portageville.

Jay Partee waived a preliminary hearing on a cheat and defraud charge. He also was placed under $500 bond and ordered to stand trial in Circuit Court.

James Henry Moseley, who pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, was fined $125, given a six -month suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for one year. His driver's license was suspended for one year.

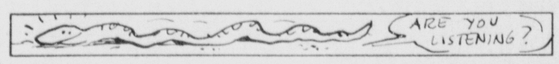

Camille Henderson was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $39 on a public intoxication charge.

Bully originally meant sweetheart!

Fined $20 each were Richard Lynn Ford, charged with operating a motor vehicle with an out -of -state license, and Charles Edward Cuff, operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license.

Fined on speeding charges were: Stephen Russell Lloyd, $44; Stanley P. Sierakowski, Con Leon McArthur and Joseph W. Meyer, $30 each; George Byon Tompras, Louis Lesley Condict and John Wilton Anderson, $25 each; Dixie Jean Leonberger and Glen Allen Williamson, $20 each; and Joseph Leo Abby and Lillie Mae Barnes, each forfeited $50 bonds.

In candlelight ceremony

Miss Boyer, May united

Wedding vows uniting Miss Rosalie Boyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Boyer, 523 Delmar St., and Richard May, son of Mrs. Bertie May of Morley, were exchanged at 7 p.m. Aug. 17 in Tanner Street Church of God.

The candlelight setting for the double -ring ceremony, performed by the Rev. Vernon Guttenfelder, the pastor, was provided by white tapers in a 15- branch candelabrum graced on either side with arrangements of white and green chrysanthemums on white pedestals. Small green candles entwined with lilies of the valley set in each of the stained glass windows of the church completed the summer setting.

Pre -nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Jean livingston, organist, who also accompanied the bride's aunt, Mrs. Audrey Beck, as she sang "Because", "We'll Walk With God" and "The Lord's Prayer". Traditional wedding marches were also played.

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her father, was attired in a gown of her own design. The formal -length gown was fashioned along princess lines with a protraint neckline edged with Chantilly lace. The long tapered sleeves were also edged with matching lace.

Her headpiece was a tiny flower caplet with lace floweres and seed pearls and a double tier veil of silk illusion. She carried a classical bouquet of white sweetheart roses and baby's breath with white satin streamers.

Miss Vivian Boyer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Benita Beck, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They wore matching formal gowns of green whipped cream crepe featuring empire waistlines, portrait necklines and ruffled flounce skirts. They carried nosegays of green and white carnations with white streamers.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with white ruffled shirt and wore a white carnation boutonnier.

Joe May of St. Louis, brother of the groom, served as best man, and Larry Beck, cousin of the bride, was junior groomsman. Joe Bill Davis of Benton and David May, of St. Louis, nephews of the groom, and Winford Farrar of Morley were ushers. The best man, junior groomsman and ushers wore black tuxedos with green ruffled shirts and matching green carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride chose a blue, polyester double knit dress made along princess lines featuring a high white collar and short sleeves. The mother of the groom wore a blue and grey diagonal striped dress featuring long sleeves. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Misses Colleen and Lisa Pastula of Struthers, Ohio, cousins of the bride, attended the guest register. They wore identical dresses of green whipped cream crepe with empire waistlines and ruffled flounce skirts.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church fellowship hall.

The bridal table was covered with a white lace cloth. At opposite ends of the table were a silver coffee service and punch bowl. The three -tiered wedding cake centered the table and was accented with white sweetheart roses, tiny green chrysanthemums and baby's breath and encircled with white daisies and greenery. Two silver candelabra with green tapers also accented the bridal table.

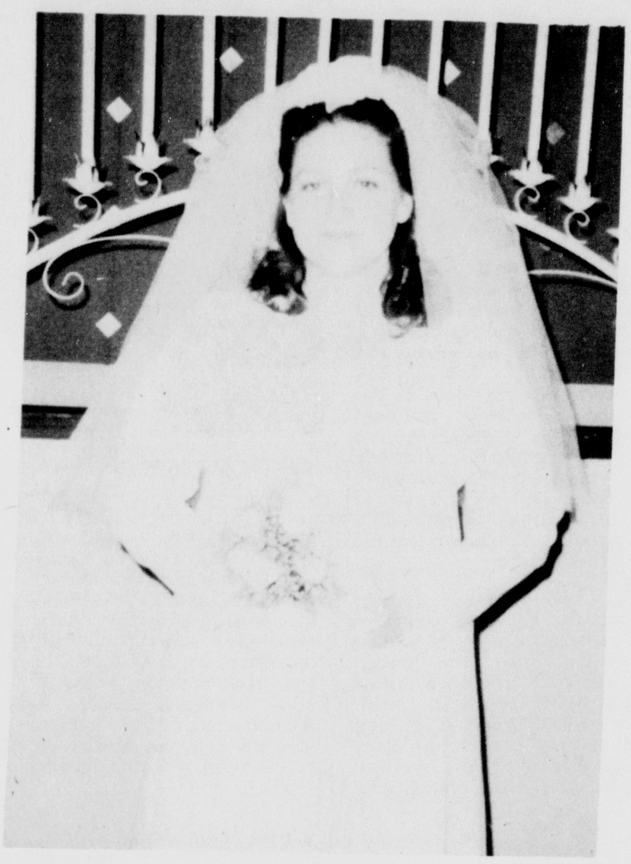

Mrs. Glenda Davis of Benton, Mrs. Patti Marsden of Sikeston, Mrs. Rita May of St. Louis, Mrs. Lois Pastula of Struthers, Mrs. Alberta Davis of Benton and Mrs. Charlotte Gooch of Decatur, Ga., served at the reception.

Out -of -town guests were:

Walter Pastula of Struthers, Ohio; J.D. Gooch and Tim Gooch of Decatur, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Walker, Malinda Walker, Sherrie Walker and David Wayne Walker of Jackson, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jones, Valerie Jones, Sherril Jones and Mary Beth Jones of Fenton.

Mrs. William Daugherty and Mr. and Mrs. Mose Boyer and children of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boyer of Dexter, Jim Bob Davis and Robbie of Benton; Miss Frances Jones of New Madrid; and Mr. and Mrs. David Baker and Jonathan of Long Beach, Calif.

The couple lives in Belleville, Ill.

Ann meets Dr. Hatem, 'most beloved American in China'

I had a luncheon date today and nearly fell in love. I'm sure Jules wouldn't mind if he knew the man. He is Dr. George Hatem, 63, born in Buffalo, N.Y., of Lebanese parents, raised in Chapel Hill, North Carolina, and he is the most beloved American in The People's Republic of China.

Our date, in the regal dining room of the Peking Hotel, was arranged by two people who didn't even know each other. Mrs. Edgar P. Snow, a mutual friend who lives in Switzerland, wrote to Dr. Hatem, and Dr. Grey Dimond of Kansas City telephoned Peking in my behalf when he learned I was going to China.

I wanted especially to meet Dr. Hatem because I had been asked to write a piece for the Reader's Digest, "Sex Among China's Teen-agers. Do They Or Don't They?" I felt Dr. Hatem would be an excellent source since he is the man who performed the miracle of getting rid of prostitution and eradicating VD in the People's Republic.

Dr. Hatem (affectionately called Ma Hai Teh -- which means "Virtuous One From Overseas") went to Beirut in 1929 to finish his medical education, then on to Geneva, Switzerland for his degree. He selected dermatology as his specialty and decided to spend a year in China studying tropical medicine.

In 1933, "Dr. Ma" went to Shanghai. He was appalled by the poverty and wretcheness of the masses and was ready to return to America and set up practice. Then he met the late Agnes Smedley (the only American woman buried in Peking's National Revolutionary Martyrs Memorial Park). She and her friends persuaded him that Mao's fighters desperately needed medical help, so he cast his lot with them against the invading Japanese and decided to stay.

Working behind the lines as a physician-civilian, Dr. Ma carried with him half of a five-pound note, to be matched with the other half, in order to get behind the Kuomintang lines.

He made the Long March to the Great Wall in 1935 (300,000 people started and only 30,000 made it to Yenan one year later).

Dr. Ma fell in love with a beautiful Chinese actress in 1936 and married her. They now have a son, a daughter and four grandchildren.

The good doctor recounted how "we" (he is so modest he shuns the personal pronoun "I") rounded up the prostitutes, discovered 90 per cent had VD, cured them with penicillin and rehabilitated them by changing their thinking. They were told, "You are not to blame for your plight - you have been exploited and sold into prostitution. In the New Order you can be respectable and hold good jobs. We will help you."

Many prostitutes became nurses, teachers, office and factory workers. "And then," Dr. Ma continued, "we trained cadre corps to recognize VD symptoms and we undertook a massive survey by drawing up questionnaries and doing house-to- house canvassing in search of cases. We held public meetings and educated the people so they wouldn't be ashamed of their illness. We pleaded with them to step forward to be treated. The battle cry was 'the cure is sure! Treatment is free! We cnnot take syphilis and gonorrhea into the New Order.' "

Dr. Ma's confidence in this mind-boggling victory was complete and convincing. He said, "I would invite a group of venerealogist from any country to go through our cities and test one million people. I'm sure they wouldn't find more than a handful of cases."

This beloved man still has his American passport but he hasn't been "home" since 1929. The American Medical Association issued him a formal invitation. If he accepts, this column is an open invitation to come to Chicago and the lunch is on me.

Area relatives, friends attend

BLODGETT -- In addition to the children of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fodge and out- of- town guests and relatives listed in Tuesday's edition of The Daily Standard, many friends and relatives from the Sikeston and Blodgett areas attended the Fodge's 50th wedding anniversary celebration Aug. 18 at the Blodgett Community Building.

Butter has been made since ancient times when it was used as medicine and as fuel in lamps, as well as food.

East Prairie Eagle football coach Ed Nichols, looks on intently as the Eagles march deep into Illmo- Scott City Ram territory Friday night in the second period. The Eagles scored a touchdown to take a 7-0 lead but the Rams came back to win the game 12-7.

Rams extend win streak

EAST PRAIRIE — Illmo-Scott City trimmed the Eagle wings Friday night and clipped them 12-7. The rams continued their winning streak, Coach Bill Wilthong, The Daily Standard coach of the year in 1973, has a 20 game winning streakgoing for him.

The Eagles gave the Rams a scare for the first half. Halftime score 7-0 East Prairie. East Prairie controlled the first half and looked as if they were going to upset the highly touted Rams. In the second quarter quarterback Grady Willford passed for 30 yards to tight- end Kem Marks to the Rams three. On the next play fullback Danny Johnson crashed off guard for the score. Mark Mars converted to give the Eagles a 7-0 lead.

With eight minutes left in the third quarter the Rams right halfback Steve Hanschen returned an Eagle punt to the Eagles 20. After a sustained drive Fullback Mark Short scored on a one yard plunge. The conversion was missed. Eagles held a slim 7-6 advantage.

With five minutes remaining in the ball game Illmo- Scott City recovered an East Prairie fumble on the Eagles 28. The Rams drove to the Eagles seven. On fourth down Ram RHB Steve Hanschen sweep left end for a seven yard score. Point after was missed.

The Eagles put a scare into the Rams on the last play of the game. The Eagles were on the Ram eighteen, passed into the End-zone and a Ram defender decided to sacrifice a penalty rather than let East Prairie score. The game ended with the Eagles on the Rams 18. This was the first game to be played by the Eagle Varsity on their new field.

Indians streak

HAYTI — Coach Jerry Cecil's HHS Indians won their first game of the 1974 football season here Friday night by romping over hapless South Pemiscot 38 0.

The Indians rolled down the field in the first period as the Bulldogs' defense couldn't contain the big running backs of the Indians.

Quarterback Jimmy Morgan and halfback Eddie Martin punched into the endzone for two touchdowns apiece.

Morgan scored from the six yard line for a 6-0 lead, Morgan fom the three yard line, Martin again from the six yard line. Eddie Martin ran across for a two poi. conversion. Patrick Thomas scored a two point conversion twice in the period and Hayti led 24-0 after the first period.

In the second quarter on the first play from scrimmage for Hayti Jimmy Morgan passed to Alex Clinton for a touchdown and the extra point try was missed and Hayti led 30-0.

Coach Cecil used his reserves the rest of the way and the final TD came in the third period on a three yard run by halfback Danny White. Morgan ran for the two poinnt conversion and the final was 38-0.

Devils lose

CHAFFEE — The Chaffee Red Devils fell to the St. Vincents Indians 21-27 Friday night in the season opener for both teams.

Chaffee scored in the first period on a 61 yard pass from Scott Wachter to Mark Whitaker. Wachter kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead. The Indians quarterback, Randy Winklep, tossed a one yard pass to Dick Wengert to put St. Vincent's on the scoreboard. Wengert kicked the extra point to tie the score.

Indian Scott Beeson ran one yard for the lead. Winkler threw to Wengert for the two point conversion in the second quarter.

Martin Shaffer sprinted 11 yards for another Chaffee Touchdown. Wachter passed to Corky Von Kessel for the two point conversion. The Indians Beeson went two yards for another St. Vincent goal although the extra point attempt was missed. Chaffee's Mark Whitaker was dumped on a pass reception late in the third quarter and received head injuries, forcing him out of the game.

The Indians Wengert ran off- tackle for 23 yards and the winning touchdown of the game. 'Devil quarterback Wachter threw to Von Kessel for the final score of the game. The extra point attempt failed.

Cards go overtime

The St. Louis Cardinals pulled to within a half game of the first place Pittsburg Pirates early this morning by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3 in a 17- inning game in Philadelphia.

The game, which started at 6:20 Friday night, was delayed for an hour and 40 minutes after the Cardinals scored five runs in the top half of the 17th inning to break a 2-2 tie.

Oddly enough, the Cardinals ended the game on a double play after falling victim six times during the game to double plays by the Phillies.

The game ended at 1:05 Bootheel time.

Bulldogs face KC's Irish

The small but spirited Sikeston Bulldogs bring their act home Saturday night for a 7:00 o'clock encounter wih the Lillis High School Fighting Irish. The Irish, despite a losing first encounter, promise to give SHS a huge, well disciplined opponent before the first home crowd of the 1974 gridiron season.

Lillis, despite being a 2-A school, boasts a starting offensive line that averages 197 pounds per man. They used this size to good advantage last week against big school, Kansas City Manuel, battling the Cardinals through a tight first half, before a disabling injury to quarterback Rich Friday led to the Manuel 26-6 win. The score at half was a narrow 7-6, Manuel, and three of the winners' scores were provided bytheir defense. The Manuel offense never did sustain an offensive drive, with their other score counting on a long bomb.

Sikeston was involved last Friday in an even more exciting contest, dropping a 766 decision to Farmington by just a hair. The Bulldogs had a second quarter score called back and gained 80 yards more than their larger hosts, but failed on a 2- point conversion attempt in the fourth period and absorbed their sixth consecutive setback, dating back to last October.

"They'll probably have the biggest team seen on the Sikeston field in several years," Sikeston coach Terry Smith said ruefully referring to the huge Lillis offensive and defensive linemen. Sikeston will be outweighed at several positions on the line by as much as 50 pounds. However, last week the Sikeston line, operating at comparable weight deficits, appeared t o be very proficient at blocking for the Sikeston backs. Coaches were "very pleased and encouraged" by the effort by the small, but very auick Sikeston linemen.

Lillis will be a passing team and, for the second week in a row, it'll be tough to predict the game's outcome. The Sikeston defensive backfield is yog and very inexperienced and, last week, they werytried just four times. This week there will be much more pressure on the four deep backs and linebacker Ron Priday, a standout at a linebacker position in last week's game, has been moved back there to give some help.

With the reinstatement of the junior high program last year, Sikeston fans hope that the Bulldogs program is headed for at least an approximation of the dominance Sikeston held on SEMO football in the 50's and 60's. A loud, enthusiastic crowd followed the Dogs to Farmington lastweek and they had to be encouraged by the fighting spirit showed by the battling, young Bulldogs. With the Bulldogs returning to their home turf Saturday, they could use a repeat of the good crowd support they received last Friday to give them the needed impetus to overcome the terrific size disadvantage they will face.

"This week we've been talking all along about David and Goliath," Smith said. A big, loud, enthusiastic crowd could provide the Bulldogs with a big slingshot.

DHS out muscles Indians

JACKSON — The Dexter Bearcats had too much muscle for the young JHS Indians Friday night and claimed a 31-21 opening season victory.

Coach Paul Webber's inexperienced Tribe broke on top in the opening quarter when Ray Lacey galloped 70 yards to give the home town fans a quick lead. But that was short lived as Joe Satterfield dashed 25 yards with a pass from Greg Mathis to even the game at 6-6 in the first period.

Dexter stormed ahead in the second quarter on the strong arm of Mathis, who passed to Paul Fairless for a 10 yard score and to Satterfield for a 50 yard TD with 15 seconds left in the first half.

Coach Clyde Vaughn's Bearcats a 24-6 lead in the third period when Jay Lemonds stepped off three yards for a score.

Jackson battled back with a 15 point fourth period, but let DHS sandwich a 50 yard scoring dash by Lemonds in between two TD's. Kent Gibbs returned an interception 34 yards and Bob Birk added the extra point. Birk passed to Darrell Sides with 1:13 left in the game for a 42 yard score and ran the extra point, but the visitors stalled the clock out the rest of the game.

Charleston wins opener, 23-14

CHARLESTON — Coach Sam Gill's Bluejays opened their 1974 football season with a 23-14 victory over the Portageville Bulldogs here Friday night.

The Bluejays jumped on top with a 19 yard pass from quarterback Keith Quertermous to Clint Clark. Kevin Hess kicked the extra point and Charleston led 7-0.

In the second period the same combination of Quertermous and Clark Clicked for a 57 yard touchdown. The extra point try was no good and the Bluejays led 13-0. Portageville scored a touchdown before the half came to a close as Tommy Bile scored from the two yard line and Charleston led 13-7 at the half.

The final Bulldog TD came in the third period as LaVonne Fountain blocked a Charleston punt and ran 30 yards for a touchdown.

Greg Johnson raced 13 yards for a touchdown in the fourth period and Ralph Mitchell ran for two points. Greg Johnson caught the Bulldog in the endzone for a safety and the final score was 23-14.

BERTRAND --Sikeston First National Bank defeated Malone and Hyde 14 -4, Thursday night in the Bertrand Slow Pitch Softball Tournament.

Buddy Spears connected for a home run to lead Russell's Kwik Serve to a 30 -4 victory over Matthews in the last game of the evening.

Bertrand Lions will face North Acres General Baptist Church Saturday night at 7 p.m. This game will be followed at 8:15 by a game between the Tanner Street Church of God opposing Wyatt.

MILWAUKEE (AP)
The Milwaukee Brewers Friday named Tony Siegle their farm director.

Indians blank MHS

KENNETT — Coach Bill Arment's KHS Indians kicked off their gridiron season in fine fashion Friday night with a 13-0 victory over Dunklin county rival Malden.

The Tribe's defense was superb, not allowing the Greenwave with 25 yards of their goal line throughout the night.

A second inning TD was nullified as the game was dominated by quite a few penalties.

The Tribe's final score came on an eight yard scamper by Rick Moore in the fourth quarter.

Kennett hosts defending Northern Division league champ, Poplar Bluff, next Friday night while Malden takes on Illmo- Scott City.

Kitchen safety report topic

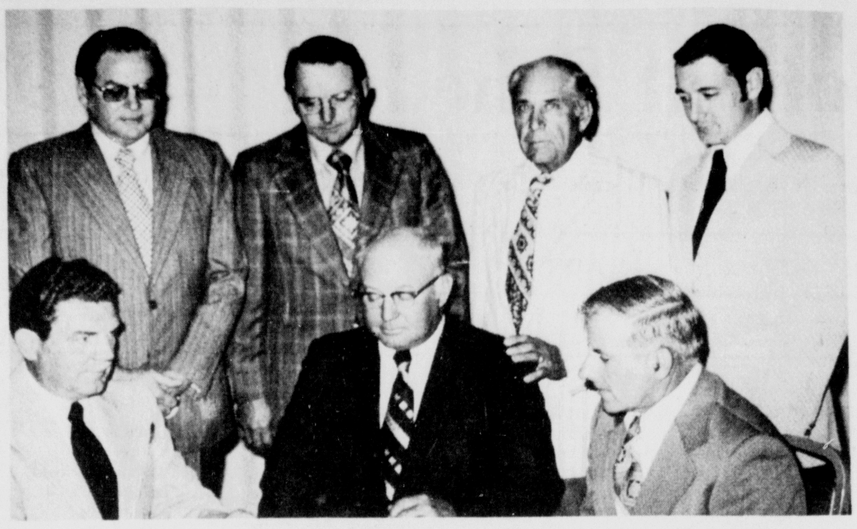

RISCO --Safety in the kitchen was the topic of a report given by Sherri Eakens at the Sept. 3 meeting of the Risco -New Hope 4— H Club at the community room of the Farmers State B ank.

Brent Landers presented a discussion on "How to Get Better Flash Photographs" and Wayne Blough reported on his recent trip to the Missouri State Fair in Sedalia.

During the program a skit, entitled, "How not to Conduct a 4 -H meeting," was presented.

Fifteen members of the club attended the meeting at which Miss Eakens, club secretary presided. Wayne Blough led the American pledge and Trena Joyce the 4-H pledge.

Breakthrough nears in soybean diseases

By Joe H. Scott
Missouri agronomy Specialist

Cotton is opening slowly in the Bootheel. Cool, wet weather has delayed maturity. Leaf diseases brought on by recent cold weather is causing much cotton to drop leaves. Although we don't like to see this in cotton as can cause immaturity of fiber it may be beneficial in tall cotton that is losing much of its bottom crop to bollrot.

We have fields all across the Bootheel that have heavy boll loads. We will need a lot of sunny weather from now through October if we hope to harvest this crop. Most growers won't start picking until October.

We get quite a few questions about the progress being made in producing a soybean variety resistent to the Race 4 cyst nematode. We have found the Race 4 nematode showing up in a number of fields this year planted to Mack, Forrest, Dyer and Pickett - all of which are resistant to the Race 3 nematode.

Dr. Grover Shannon our soybean breeder at the University of Missouri-Columbia's Delta Center at Portageville has been been making crosses this summer between varieties that are adapted to the bootheel and promising Race 4 tolerant strains. Progeny from these crosses will be screened against Race 4 tolerant strains. Progeny from these crosses will be screened against Race 4 in the greenhouse this winter. Field trials are being conducted this summer on Race 4 infested soils. One hundred and twenty lines with tolerance to cyst nematode are being compared with Forrest and Mack on this infested soil.

The tolerant lines that Dr. Shannon is testing this summer came from a cross made in Mississippi between a sister line of Forrest and a Manchurian strain with Race 4 resistance. From these crosses Dr. Shannon and his co-workers hope to get Race 4 tolerant lines that will have yield potential nad the other good qualities of the Forrest and Mack varieties.

In a six-year average comparison in irrigation studies at the Delta Center, early maturing soybean vaiieties showed the greatest response and the late varieties showed the least response to irrigation. Early varieties responded more readily to irrigation vecause pod set and pod fill occured during late July and early August when hot dry weather was more of a problem. Under irrigation, early varieties yielded as well as commonly grown late varieties when irrigated, but were lower than full season varieties under no irrigation. Late maturing varieties showed less response to irrigation as moisture was less of a problem during pod filling and weather was cooler. This information is presented in our Fall Field Day booklet.

Soybean cyst nematodes annually cost $50 million in lost soybean yields in Southeast Missouri alone.

"Race 3 has hit over a million acres in this area, but htere are varieties resistant to it," said Shannon. "So far, however, no resistance to Race 4 has been found."

But the Delta Center scientist is optomistic. He hopes to have at least one Race 4 resistant variety to release to growers in three to four years.

Shannon, who has been working with the Department of Agriculture to develop disease resistant soybean, will report this cooperative research at the Delta Center Field Day here Tuesday.

"Getting the resistance into acceptable strains hasn't been easy," said Shannon.

"We had to use unadapted soybean types. They are poor in yield, prone to lodging and shattering, have poor seed quality and are not very adapted to growing here. Then we've had to take these poor types with disease resistance and cross them with something that was acceptable.

"After we cross resistant lines with commercially adapted varieties we screen progeny from these crosses in the greenhouse, put them on Race 4 infested soil in the field, and reselect them for resistance again.

"It's taken some time because inheritance of resistance to cyst nematode is complex. We should have an acceptable resistant variety for release to growers in three to four years."

Shannon said he's working on soybean varieties of several different maturity groups to get them adapted to a wide area.

"We're working with strains similar in maturity to Clark in Group 4, Mack and Forest in Group 5, and Pickett in Group 6," said Shannon. "This should give us resistance in a wider range of soybean maturity."

Resistant lines used in the Delta Center research program were obtained from the USDA Soybean Collection at Urbana, Ill., and Stoneville, Miss.

Cyst nematode has been spreading fairly rapidly throughout the soybean growing areas. They have been carried by wind, birds, water, and by other means of soil movement to several states.

"Resistant varieties will certainly lower the toll the disease might take," said Shannon.

1975 farm program announced

NEW MADRID -- Basic provisions of the 1975 wheat, feed train and cotton programs will be the same as 1974 programs, according to Larry Blunt, director of the New Madrid County ASCS Office.

There will be no set-aside acreage or conserving base requiremtnts for participation in any of the farm programs for 1975. Farmers will again be able to plant all the wheat, feed grains or cotton they desire to plant.

Matthews FFA officers

Expert calls alfalfa weevil problem 'serious'

SPICKARD -- Alfalfa prices are soaring. Trouble is, so are the numbers of alfalfa weevils.

"The alfalfa weevil problem is serious," Jim Huggans, University of Missouri-Columbia entomogolist, told the farmers attending the North Missouri Field day — Friday.

"If you don't treat with an insecticide, you'll lose the first cutting and a lot of the second because of the stress the larva or adults can put on the plant."

Cost of the treatment runs about $2.50 to $4 per acre.

"That's a good investment," said Huggans. "At today's prices you can get your money back if you can get just two more bales per acre!"

Huggans said alfalfa weevil populations in 1974 were higher in north central Missouri than in any other part of the state. He checked population in 20 different Missouri locations this past season.

"We are making some headway on population, especially in the southern part of the state," said Huggans, "but the problem is not going away.

"On the plus side, parasite numbers are building. These are natural enemies of the alfalfa weevil which hleps to keep it in check.

"One that moved in with the weevil looks the best. This is Bathyplectes curculions which has now spread statewide. It knocks about 30 or 40 per cent of the weevils, but we still need insecticides to take care of the pests on the plant."

Huggans also told about two alfalfa varieties which have shown some tolerance to the alfalfa weevil: Team and Weevilchek.

"They're good," said Huggans, "but still hard to get. Anyway, we still have to used some insecticides with them. Their yields aren't any better than the production we get from other varieties when we use insecticides."

Huggans said the best way to control the alfalfa weevil is to use a good management program. That includes not cutting the alfalfa after Sept. 15, fertilization, and doing a clean job of removing hay.

"Insecticide timing makes quite a difference, too," he noted . "The temperature should be over 60 degrees, and it shouldn't rain for at least a day and, preferably, two after the insecticide is applied."

Operating costs force producers out of business

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High operating costs and low returns are forcing farmers to abandon hog production and the result may be higher pork price at the meat counter early next year, according to experts at National Stockyards near East St. Louis, Ill.

"In six or seven months, hog receipts will be down sharply. After the first of the year, the number will decline and prices will go up," predicts Frank Patton, manager of the Farmers Livestock Marketing Association office.

"The number of sows being sold has been running eight to 15 per cent more in volume than a year ago," Patton said. "They (farmers) are going to cut down their hog operations or get out of the business completely, at least for awhile."

The association is a farmers co-operative and acts as a go-between for farmers and packers. It is the largest commission firm at the yards, handling 35 per cent of the hogs brought in each day — about 2,000 animals.

High grain and fuel costs, coupled with lower prices on the hoof are contributing to the farmers' abandonment of the hog business.

Patton pointed out that feed corn was $1.57 per bushel last year and that it costs over $4.00 now. He said soybean meal has doubled and tripled in price from a year ago.

Last year at this time, hogs were selling at about 52 cents per pound, while last week, they brought only 38 cents a pound.

Alfred Spaunhorst, the operator of a 250-acre farm near Villa Ridge, Mo., says farmers would like to see hog prices back near the 50-cent level.

"All the farmer is asking is a return on the cost of production plus a little profit," said Spaunhorst, who operates a National Farmers Organization hog collection point.

The collection point is part of the NFO's project called "Little Porker," which is designed to slaughter, freeze and ship 500,000 feeder pigs to foreign countries in an attempt to reduce the number of hogs available here. Feeder pigs weigh 50 to 60 pounds and are about four or five months away from maturity.

"This means that 87,000,000 pounds of dressed pork will not make it to the shelves," said Spaunhorst, 46. "The farmers are really quitting. There's just not going to be any meat around."

Joseph A. McClure of the U.S. Department of Agriculture rejects the theory that operation "Little Porker" will have much effect on hog markets.

"We slaughter on the national level 300,000 hogs per day. The 500,000 feeder pigs would make up only a day and a half of an average kill," McClure said.

He agreed however that because of the large number of sows being brought to market and the farmers' desire to get out of the hog business, receipts will be down 10 per cent "about eight months from now."

"For the small farmer, hog production is a money-losing proposition," McClure said.

Both Patton and Spaunhorst agreed that 1975 would bring higher pork prices.

"I don't know why consumers should growl about food going up. They don't complain when cars go up. The price of beer rises, they still drink," Spaunhorst said.

Patton said big food retailers are to blame.

"The retail price of meat this year has gone up 20 per cent. Retailers collected it with no qualms while the farmers got nothing and the consumers paid the bill," Patton said.

SCS provides aid in conservation measures

BENTON-- Many people do not know the services that are available to them through the Soil Conservation Service.

There is an office in Scott County, located in Benton, where you call or visit for assistance in related soil and water conservation measures.

There are very few activities performed on the land that do not fall under this classification. Farming, recreation, waste management, plant cover, cover for wildlife, and critical are seeding are a few of the catagories covered in services available to the public.

Services are available to all regardless of race, color, creed, sex or financial status. Help is free for technical assistance and an effort is made to be as prompt as scheduling will permit.

The Soil Conservation Service has specialist to assist you in agronomy, engineering, biology, soil scientist, soil conservationist and farm forrester and other resource poeple, covering every aspect of our land and natural resources.

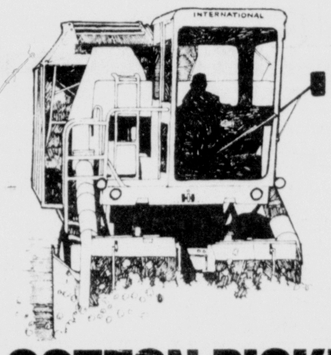

These services are available because Scott County has a Soil and Water Conservation District, and the district board can and does request these services for you.

"My hand didn't get shooked."

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Sept. 14, the 257th day of 1974. There are 108 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, President William McKinley died in Buffalo, N.Y., from gunshot wounds inflicted by an anarchist. Vice President Theodore Roosevelt was sworn in as President.

On this date —

In 1628, the second settlement in Massachusetts, Salem, was chartered by John Endicott.

In 1778, Benjamin Franklin was sent to France as an American minister.

In 1812, Russians set fire to Moscow after an invasion by Napoleon Bonaparte.

In 1940, Congress passed the Selective Service Act. It was the first peacetime draft in U.S. history.

In 1945, after World War II, Premier Higashi-Kuni of Japan said the people of his country would forget the devastation caused by the atomic bomb if Americans forgot Pearl Harbor.

In 1963, Mrs. Andrew Fischer of Aberdeen, S.D., gave birth to quintuplets.

Ten years ago: The third session of the 21st Ecumenical Council opened at St. Peter's Basilica at the Vatican.

Five years ago: For the fifth time in less than a week, Israeli warplanes attacked Egyptian military objectives on the west shore of the Gulf of Suez.

Today's birthday: Actress Zoe Caldwell is 41 years old.

Thought for today: No grand idea was ever born in a conference, but a lot of foolish ideas have died there — novelist F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Mizzou opens at Ole Miss

COLUMBIA, Mo. --Ol' Mizzou the nations 18th ranked team in the AP poll, takes the Big Eight football show into Mississippi for the first time in that state's history in an opener this Saturday night in Jackson.

Tiger Coach Al Onofrio's fourth Missouri team will challenge the Johnny Rebs in their own hostile backyard --Mississippi's Memorial Stadium --before an estimated turnout of 35,000 spectators.

Launching the series here last year, Missouri stopped Ole Miss, 17 -0 – out -yarding the visitors 365 to 153. Kenny Lyons, senior Rebel quarterback, stepped in for injured Norris Weese in that meeting, and shared the leadership role with Stan Bounds.

Lyons will direct rookie coach Ken Cooper's multiple sets against a touted Missouri defense this time --while Onofrio taps senior Ray Smith, a junior college transfer from Santa Maria, Calif., to direct the Bengals' Power "I" attack.

Smith, a 195- pounder, started Missouri's final season game against Kansas in 1973 -- and was at the controls for the 34 -17 Sun Bowl win over Auburn. He will be backed up Saturday night by rangy Steve Pisarkiewicz --a sophomore red -shirt from Ferguson, Mo. --who, it is anticipated, will give the Tigers' more of a passing image than has been their personality.

Both teams go into the season with stable, solid defenses. The Tigers return eight regulars on defense, after losing senior tackle Dennis Vanarsdall for the year with a broken leg. Ole Miss has seven starters back, led by big Ben Williams, the 253 -pound all -SEC tackle.

Looking forward to a season in which Missouri has been picked to finish among the nation's best 20 football teams by several magazines, Onofrio thinks his team is ready for its 1974 baptism. But he frets about the uncertainties of first -game combat.

"You always worry about how your new men will react under fire," he says. "And that first -scrimmage injury to both quarterbacks has been a factor in getting good execution."

The Tigers ostensibly are deeper in backfield talent this year, but only three offensive line starters are seasoned performers --tight end Don Muse and guards Steve Sadich and Don Buck. How well and how soon can this remodeled frontfill the voids created by the loss of all -America center Scott Anderyon, all -Big Eight tackle Jim Schnietz and tight end John Kelsey?

Onofrio is concerned about the kicking and kick return game which featured field -goaler Greg Hill and speedy John Moseley, who led the conference in punt and kickoff runbacks.

New coaches butt heads

CAPE GIRARDEAU- Southeast Missouri State University begins its football campaign Saturday and for the seventh consecutive year Delta State College of Cleveland, Mill., will provide the Indians' opposition in the season opener.

This year's game is in Cleveland with a 7:30 p.m. starting time.

Southeast Missouri State's new head coach, Jim Lohr, said the Statesmen "probably have a little more depth all -around than we do," and he expressed concern about the size of the Delta State defenders. He also observed that the Mississippians are reported to have perhaps the best running backs in the school's history.

But he added that the Tribe is both mentally and physically ready for the contest and said, "If we do the best we can, we can win."

The coach continued, "My biggest worry is our quickness on defense. And we're not as fast on defense as we were last year. So we will have to do everything right to compensate for our lack of speed and quickness.'

The Statesmen also have a new head coach this fall in Robert McGraw. However, unlike Lohr, who has installed a veer offense at Southeast Missouri State, the new Delta State head man is apparently sticking with the offense which former coach Horace McCool used effectively in past years. The Delta State offense is listed as the pro -I.

McGraw was faced at the start of practice with replacing 16 starters --eight on offense and eight on defense. He had 30 returning lettermen to choose from as well as a large number of junior college transfers.

Of top concern was finding someone to fill the shoes of departed quarterback David Bradberry, the Gulf South Conference's "Offensive Player of the Year" in 1973. Ten days ago Bobby Barrett (Jackson, Miss.) and Milton Driskell (Lucedale, Miss.) had the best shots at the job.

Delta State's highly -touted running backs include tailback candidates Billy King (Stringer, Miss.) , Willie Dickson (Greenwood, Miss.), and Terry Goodwin (Enterprise, Miss.). Fullback prospects include Sammy Boles (Jackson, Miss,) and Terry Goodin (Enterprise, Miss).

Indications are the Deltans, given their fine running backs, will attempt to stick to the ground. McGraw acknowledged, "We'll be running the ball a lot." However, he noted, "We feel we will be able to throw when the situation calls for it."

Lohr, on the other hand, has 25 lettermen on hand. Six returning offensive starters and five returning defensive first stringers are in his tentative line -up for Saturday night.

Among the returning offensive starters are senior Ed Slaughter (Cape Girardeau), senior Carl Gross (Cape Girardeau), and senior David Goncher (Sough Chicago Heights, Ill.).

Slaughter, Gross, and Goncher, in that order, were the Tribe's top pass receivers in 1973. Couple this with the fact that the Indian quarterback will be Rick Wieser of Topeka, Kans., an All -American transfers from Fort Scott, Kans., Community College who threw for more than 1,500 yards last season, and it could be that the Indians will go to the air often.

Delta State posted an 8 -3 record last season. All of the Statesmen losses came in Gulf South Conference action, and they finished third in the league race. The Mississippinas beat the Indians 20 -12, and they have dominated the series between the two schools, 10 -3 -1. Southeast Missouri State last won in 1969. The tie was in 1971.

Southeast Missouri State finished 1973 with a 6 -4 record. However, the Indians won the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship, losing only to Northwest Missouri State University of Maryville in conference action.

Sports

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Sabres tore up winger Craig Ramsay's contract and gave him a new one—"one he deserves," general manager Punch Imlach said Thursday.

Imlach said the pact was a multiyear agreement. Ramsay had one year to go on his old contract.

Ramsay, a 5-foot-10, 180pounder from Toronto, was the Sabres second-round choice in the amateur draft in 1971. He scored 20 goals and had 26 assists last season.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Sunday with the Rev. Paul Walker, pastor of First Christian Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Forrest Hil Memorial Garden Cemetery near Morley.

Thieves take items from Essex home

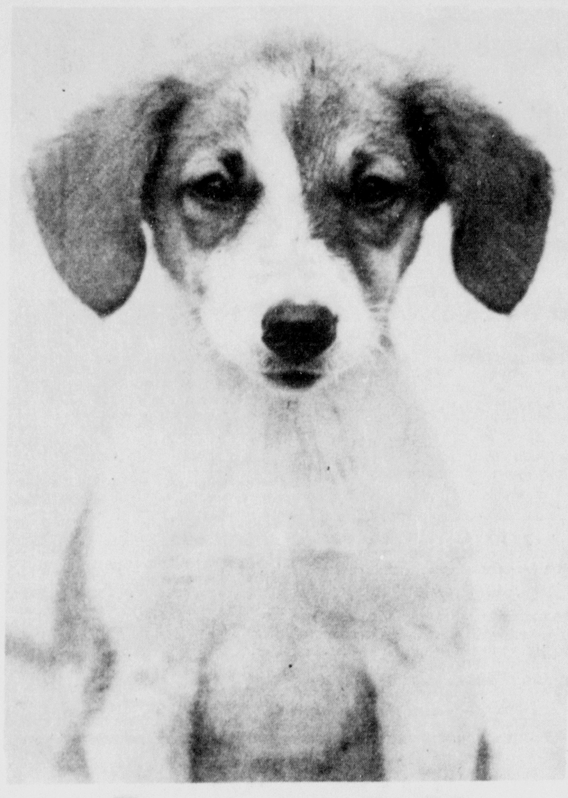

ESSEX — Thieves pried a screen off a window at the home of Lawton James here sometime between 7:45 and 10 p.m. Wednesday and escaped with a number of items, the Stoddard County sheriff's department reported.

Taken were a black and white television set, a tape player, a portableradio, a stereo and recorder, a half bushel of apples and $1.

The items were valued at approximately $300.

Southeast Missouri Hospital at Cape Girardeau.

An accident occurred at 7:10 a.m. on Highway 34 in Marble Hill when a westbound car driven by Edward Paschal, 48, of Springfield swung wide on a curve and struck an eastbound bus driven by Avery Rosewell Crites, 59 of Lutesville.

Both drivers received minor injuries.

Debbie Miller, 25, and Michelle Miller, 4, of Cape Girardeau suffered minor injuries at 10:50 a.m. on Route K west of Cape Girardeau.

The accident occurred when Mrs. Miller's car skidded on wet pavement, went off the road and struck a dirt embankment.

What's the law?

The case of the buxom passenger

ByJACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Betty had a figure that could have defrosted an Eskimo. Nevertheless, when she asked Wilbur, a bus driver, to help her aboard his vehicle, he didn't move a muscle to assist her.

Highly insulted, Buxom Betty proceeded to board the bus on of her own. Unfortunately, she lost her balance, slipped and fell on her well-cushioned derriere.

Picking herself up slowly, Betty sued the bus company for her injuries.

"Wilbur was no gentleman," she charged in court. "What's more, when passenger requests aid in getting on a bus, the driver is required to comply."

"Maybe when you're dealing with an old lady," was Wilbur's answer, "but, in Betty's case, she was in fantastic shape. In fact, the only reason she fell was because she was furious at me and wasn't paying attention to where she was walking."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the bus company liable for Wilbur's failure to aid his buxom passenger?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that in the event a passenger is blind, sick, aged, very young, crippled or infirm, and the condition is apparent or made known, the operator of a bus is required to render necessary aid in assisting the passenger to board or alight from the vehicle. And, if he fails to do so, noted the judge, or does so carelessly, the bus company can be held liable for resulting injuries.

In this case, concluded the judge, since Betty was apparently in good shape and the step was normal, Wilbur had no obligation to help her. (Based upon a 1960 Florida Supreme Court Decision).

Contracts let for graveling

DEXTER — Two local gravel companies Wednesday night offered separate bids to the board of education on the proposed improvement of Pilot Lane, a partially blacktopped lane running east and west just south of the high school. The road is in need of grading and gravel improvements in conjunction with the proposed building of a new junior high school to be located near the high school.

Two individual contracts were approved by the board, securing Lemons Gravel of Dexter for the operation. The bid submitted by Lemons estimated grading for the price of $2,150 and the gravel job for $2,240. The bid was the lowest submitted and was approved.

Present to confer with board members on the proposed improvements were Gary Gains and Darrell Orr, representatives of Trotter and Associates of Dexter, who are assisting in the engineering of the operation.

Bills in the amount of $87,269.37 were approved by the board. Broken down, the figure represents $22,065.83 allotted for teachers fund bills, $37,771.45 for regular incidental fund bills, $6,658.69 for incidental lunchroom bills, $6,273.45 for incidental high school activity bills, $69.70 for elementary activity bills, $7,147.95 for textbook bills and $7,282.30 for building fund bills.

Sikeston architect Bob Stearnes met with the board and presented a detailed drawing of the proposed junior high building. Stearnes informed the board that professional photographs for publication use would be available later.

The board approved the admission charge to basketball and football games recommended by Supt. T. S. Hill. Admission for adults for both activities will be $1.25 and 75 cents for children.

The board also approved the purchase of one van-type bus for the purpose of transferring a few multiple handicapped local children to Poplar Bluff's diagnostic clinic. The bus, which is equipped to transport as many as 16 passenger, will arrive in Dexter within the next week. It was purchased from Superior Bus Co. for $6,000 and is fully equipped to meet state regulations.

Hill stressed the need for such a bus in the school program, stating that such a facility is needed in various field trips and other small group rides, rather than the use of a 66- passenger school bus.

Hill "hopes for consolidation" in the present recreational activities committeemen who have requested the use of Dexter school gymnasium facilities for the purpose of united group sport activities through the winter months.

The Community Recreation Committee, headed by Lewis Jones, has requested the use of the school gymnasium on several weekdays and weekends. A problem arose when some area groups, which have met on their own and secured the same facility for several years, decided they would rather remain a separate group rather than join forces with the community project. The problem will be discussed by individuals involved in the projects.

It was decided by the board that allowance for school employes who use their own transportation for various school- related meetings, etc. would be allowed an additional two cents over last Year's dime allowance for gas. Such costs are state reimbursed, Hill explained.

A motion was approved to hire Jack Woodruff as the new custodian at Dexter Junior High School.

Also passed was a motion to employ D. E. and Linda Carpenter as 1974-75 bus drivers. Linda Carpenter is also scheduled to drive the newly purchased van bus.

8 precincts eliminated

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Court has authorized the elimination of eight county voting precincts. In each of the eight being eliminated, less than 35 persons voted during the August primary election.

The eight being eliminated will be consolidated with nearby larger precincts to make more convenient and economical voting places. The eight former precincts are: Asherville, Charter Oak, Lavalle, Powe, Kinder, Birds Corner, Circle City and Shawan.

Asherville will be consolidated with Puxico; Charter Oak, with Marco; LaValle, with Marco; Powe, with Bernie; Kinder, with Leora; Birds Corner, with Gray Ridge; Circle City, with Gray Ridge; and Shawan, with Bell City.

County Clerk John Marvin Capps estimates more than $1,600 will be saved at no loss in service by the elimination of the eight precincts. Several costs will be reduced, the most prominent being the costs of election workers.

The minimum number of election workers it takes to man a precinct is six. Elimination of the eight precincts reduces the number of election workers by 48. At $26 per day salary, that eliminates $1,248 in salaries.

Also eliminated are fixed precinct supplies costs of $50.78, according to Capps.

The former precincts were a poor investment for taxpayers. In Lavalle, for example, only 14 persons voted in the primary election. The average cost per vote was $17.14. Only 19 persons voted at Charter Oak for an average cost of $12.56.

In addition to the costs of supplies and precinct workers, some rents will be saved by eliminating the eight precincts.

Combining the eight with other precincts will not make any overly large precincts. For example, only 19 persons voted at Charter Oak and 14 at Lavalle. They are being consolidated with Marco which had 46 voters for a total of 79.

However, these totals could go up in an election which has a normal turnout. About only 30 per cent of the total electorate voted in the primary election.

Although taxpayers are paying for the privilege of voting, they apparently are refusito go to the polls. No matter what the size of the voter turnout is, most election costs are fixed, such as the number of precinct workers, rents and many supplies, Capps said.

$690,000 bond issue at Bernie

BERNIE — Bernie school district voters will be asked to approve a $695,000 bond issue on Sept. 24 for the purpose of constructing an addition to the elementary school building, an addition to the high school building and other improvements.

The issue will require a two-thirds majority for passage.

School officials point out that the building presently used as a junior high school is more than 50 years old, and school officials have been advised to vacate it as soon as possible and to build a new structure. Remodeling of the present building is not economically feasible, school officials have been informed by building experts.

Building experts have estimated that it would cost over $250,000 to make the necessary repairs on the basic structure, "still leaving us with a half- century- old building," school officials said.

"Your board has deemed this repair program unsound and after consulting with architects on the manner, unanimously recommend we replace the old building with new ground- floor classrooms."

The architectural firm of Donnellan and Porterfield of Poplar Bluff is handling the architectural work on the new facility.

Including in the proposed new facilities will be classrooms for the elementary school, a physical education facility with showers and lockers, a new library, in addition to facilities for music and special education departments for the elementary school.

For the junior high, the proposed new facilities would include a new science department, together with a wing of five new classrooms, in addition to bus loading and unloading facilities.

If the bond issue is approved, the older building can be vacated and removed from the grounds, it was pointed out.

Approval of the bond issue is being urged by Supt. Elmer Dunn and all members of the board of education.
